LEGION STAND ON BONUS WINS HOOVER PRAISE

President Says Veterans Have Set Example for Others to Follow

Washington —(AP)—Faced with a two-horned problem of declining federal receipts and mounting expenditures, President Hoover pushed an attack today against group demands upon congress for new spending.

At least until "the country is in better condition," the president said, voluntary associations, business and general citizenry should realize a need "not to increase but to decrease the expenditures of the federal government."

However, his call for a halt in what was termed the annual massing up of pressures in behalf of self-interested sectional projects gave no final answer to the administration's course toward taxation.

It fell almost in the midst of diverging proposals by members of congress for curbing the nation's fiscal ailments. Some continued their advocacy of new federal borrowing to meet the deficit. A rapidly mounting number called for additional taxation, whether upon incomes high and low, general sales or luxuries.

The administration's answer is due within a month or six weeks.

As an example of what he meant by taking the spending pressure off the coming congress, President Hoover cited and praised the action of the American Legion in voting against demands for new bonus legislation.

Mr. Hoover said the legion had "set an example to other voluntary bodies in the country in its determination to make no requests of the next congress."

Cites Rejected Bills

As a further instance, he told of 271 bills introduced in the last congress—all of them rejected.

Had all of them been passed, he said, additional appropriations of $3,100,000,000 could have been called for during the current fiscal year and nearly $17,000,000,000 during the next 10 years.

These demands, the president explained, came mostly from voluntary associations, group interests, section interests and business.

"We are all familiar," he said, "with the agencies that show both in direct pressures upon congress and the administration and the propaganda which they carry on in the country to induce citizens to exert their individual influence in the massing up of pressures."

"This is a time when they should emulate the American Legion in standing with what is the wish of the majority of congressmen and senators—that is, not to increase but to decrease the expenditures of the federal government."

Briefly the situation being attacked by the president is this: Receipts for the current year are $241,000,000 less than at the same time last year. Expenditures are $170,000,000 greater. The deficit last year approached the billion dollar mark.

Senator Reed's Plan

Senator Reed, Republican, Pennsylvania, generally in line with the administration on money matters, again urged upon the president yesterday his plan for a sales tax as the logical way out.

Unless this tax, one upon incomes or both, are levied, he said, the deficit probably will mount to $1,500,000,000.

Neither this or any other plan went unchallenged, however. Just about the time one Republican stalwart, Senator Capper of Kansas, was calling Reed's plan "unthinkable," Representative Britten, Republican, Illinois, said he favored it.

Speaking in St. Louis, three other representatives—Shannon and Fulbright of Missouri, and Canfield of Indiana—urged increased income taxes in the higher brackets. Their views coincided with those of Representative McDuffie, Democrat, Alabama, and Senator Glenn, Republican, Illinois.

Hungry Chinese Mob INQUEST TO BE RESUMED OCT. 2 IN MURDER CASE

Huntington, N. Y.—(AP)—The inquest into the slaying of Benjamin P. Collings of Stamford, who was thrown into Long Island sound to drown after two men had beaten him and bound his hands and feet, was adjourned today until Oct. 2, with the murder as much as an enigma as ever.

The only witnesses today were Herbert Collings, brother of the slain man who identified the body which was washed on to the beach, and Dr. Otto H. Schultz, the medical examiner who performed the autopsy.

Dr. Schultz testified the immediate cause of death was drowning and that a contributing cause was binding of the victim's hands.

Asked by District Attorney Blue about evidence of blows on Collings' head Dr. Schultz stood up and declared:

"That is beside the point gentlemen. The finding is death by drowning, good-bye."

And with that he walked from the room.

Widow Ends Testimony

Mrs. Collings, nervous, and almost at the point of collapse after three hours of questioning yesterday, turned to her father-in-law, H. P. Collings, and her attorney, William A. Kelly, at adjournment and said: "I am not going on the stand again today, and I don't promise to come back here either."

Mr. Kelly late said: "Mrs. Collings will not go back again at any time under present conditions."

Kelly objected to the publicity given his client at public hearings before Coroner William Gibson in the Huntington town hall.

Mrs. Collings lives in Stamford, Conn., and her presence as a witness was purely voluntary.

"I can't force her to come," commented Alexander C. Blue, district attorney of Suffolk-co, who questioned her at the inquest. "But I hope to have her on the stand again next week."

Jersey City, N. J.—(AP)—A registered nurse who hurled herself in her apartment for hours to avoid telling police about a report that she had information concerning the Collings murder case, finally decided to talk today and then it was found that she had nothing to tell.

The report was that Miss Leonora Adveria Muttart, the nurse, knew of two men who had a motive for killing Benjamin Collings of Stamford. After lengthy questioning, during which she convinced officials of the district attorney's office at Suffolk-co, Long Island, that she had no such knowledge, she was released.

Miss Muttart at first refused to leave her apartment and with equal insistence refused to let police enter. For hours they argued with her, shouting their pleas through the locked doors and at last she bowed to their wishes.

But by that time crowds had gathered in the street and dozens of reporters and cameramen were waiting to get a glimpse of her. She turned to page 4 col. 7

Gandhi Firm Against Lifting Boycott On Cotton Goods

"India's Lot Harder to Bear Than Yours," He Tells Textile Workers

Darwen, Lancashire, Eng.—(AP)—Mahatmas Gandhi, surrounded by the vestiges of Great Britain's vanished textile trade with India, today turned a deaf ear to Lancashire's plea that he lift the Nationalist boycott against foreign cotton goods.

After hearing from the workers, the jobless spinners and the mill owners how difficult Lancashire's lot has become, he replied that India's lot is still harder to bear and that he and the Indian congress party would remain firm in their stand that India produce cloth sufficient for its own needs.

If the round table conference now in progress should develop a solution of India's difficulties, he added, it is possible that some time in the future India might need more goods than she is able to produce, in which case British products would be favored over those of other nations.

Afterward the mayor of Darwen said it was apparent Gandhi is determined to ease the lot of his own people first and that Great Britain must come to the realization that Lancashire never will regain its lost textile trade with India.

No Great Welcome

Gandhi, in visiting Lancashire, met the people who have been harmed most by his struggle in behalf of India's independence.

He found them cheerful for the most part, however, and there was little chill in his greeting. As one man, shaking his fist in the beard of face of Rev. Charles Andrews, Gandhi's friend expressed it:

"You tell Gandhi that a thousand Gandhis couldn't shake Lancashire off its feet."

Nevertheless Gandhi's boycott against British goods in India, blamed for the ruin of the textile industry and he is the man who most of Lancashire blames for the wolf at its door. It is estimated his campaign caused the loss of orders for two billion yards of manufactured cloth during the past two years and is responsible for dark silent factories and thousands of unemployed workers.

Gandhi was both cheered and heckled when he came to the nearby village of Springvale last night to spend the weekend conferring with operators and workers alike. There were shouts of "good old Gandhi!" and others not so complimentary as a great throng of mill families pressed around the station.

BROKERS ACCUSED OF FRAUD CONSPIRACY

Chicago—(AP)—John De Wolf and his son, John, Jr., who operated DeWolf and Co., investment brokers, were under indictment today on charges of conspiring to defraud the public. Prosecuting attorneys said the company caused losses of more than $500,000 to investors.

The prosecution charges that the DeWolfs, who operated an office in Milwaukee before coming to Chicago sold construction loan bonds, and then failed to turn over the money so that the buildings could be finished. Another charge is that the DeWolfs failed to deliver the bonds to purchasers, but used these bonds to get loans.

9-YEAR-OLD BOY ADMITS HE DROWNED PLAYMATE

Bakersfield, Calif.—(AP)—Bobby Labourd, 9, faced a term in a state institution today as a result of the drowning of a 6-year-old playmate in a mill ditch here last Monday.

Superior Judge Erwin W. Owen said Bobby confessed yesterday he pushed the victim, George Taylor Leistikow, into the ditch because he "wanted to tag me to a movie."

"I shoved him into the canal," he said, "and watched his body go under the street. Then I threw his shoes in after him and went to the movie."

MACHINE-GUNNERS FAIL IN ASSASSINATION PLOT

St. Louis—(AP)—Automobile machine gunners attempted to assassinate Dave Klegman, 27, and Harry Lander, 30, in the downtown section here last night, as they were about to enter the American hotel, where they live. Police said both were employed at the Seventh-st. smoke shop, which was bombed Aug. 28. Klegman and Lander were behind a parked motor car.

The gunners escaped under the pistol fire of Patrolman Ivan Stroud, who heard the shooting and ran to the scene.

FIND MEDICAL SUPPLIES BUT NO PROVISIONS

Famous Flier Calls Scene "Most Heart-rending in My Career"

Nanking —(AP)—A crying, starving throng surrounded the plane of Col. Charles A. Lindbergh when it landed on flood waters near Hingwa, northern Kiangsu province, today and for a time it was feared the craft be seriously damaged and even its occupants harmed.

Coming in sampans, tubs and anything floatable, the throng surged around the plane, snatching at packages it contained. The desperately hungry natives wanted food and were bitterly disappointed when they learned the plane brought only medical supplies.

Col. Lindbergh, Dr. Heng Liu, director of the National Flood Relief commission's department of hygiene and sanitation, and Dr. J. N. Grant, American faculty member of the Peiping Union Medical college, who made the flight, took off almost immediately to return to Nanking, deciding they could do nothing except save the plane from possible damage.

Hingwa has been flooded for nearly a month, its residents being forced to make their way around in various watercraft.

Speaking of the incident Col. Lindbergh said:

"It was the most heart-rending experience of my career."

At said it was not the possible danger that worried him and his companions as much as it was the realization of their helplessness when confronted by such a welter of human misery so near starvation and unable even to understand the humanitarian purpose of the visit.

Mrs. Lindbergh Not Present

Hingwa is 70 miles northeast of Nanking and almost in the center of the lowest point of the basin between the Grand canal and Yellow sea. It is the seat of Hingwa-co, which prior to the flood had a population of 600,000.

Mrs. Lindbergh missed the trying experience. She remained at Nanking, deciding Dr. Liu and Dr. Grant would need the space she might occupy.

At least five stops in the flooded area east from the Grand canal had been planned by the party but the experience at Hingwa, their first stop, sent them back to Nanking, discouraged at the feasibility of their plans to use Col. Lindbergh's

For Repeal

FRED A. BRITTEN

Britten To Ask Repeal Of Dry Law

Illinois Congressman Says He Will Offer Bill Against Volstead Law

Washington —(AP)—The thrashing forward early of prohibition as a controversial issue has been promised the next congress.

From the welter of discussion trailing the American Legion's demand for a referendum on the liquor question arose today a pledge by a anti-prohibitionist that a bill for repeal of the Volstead act would be introduced soon after congress convenes. It came from Representative Britten of Illinois.

On the other side of the fence, Senator Sheppard of Texas, co-author of the eighteenth amendment, expects to resurrect his bill making the purchase of liquor equally guilty with the seller, and also clarifying the Volstead act to prohibit liquor making in the home.

Representative Britten saw in the legion's vote the "death-knell" of prohibition. He asserted that if the service organization and the American Federation of Labor would use "their tremendous persuasive power" they could bring about repeal of the Volstead law during the impending congressional session.

Dr. Dan A. Poling, national chairman of the Allied Forces of Prohibition, described the veteran's action as a "fundamental mistake," he added that while regretting it, he did not question the good faith of the legion. His statement, made in Oregon, coincided with an announcement of plans by the board of strategy of the national conference of organizations supporting the eighteenth amendment for an intensive political campaign designed to reach every potential voter.

F. Scott McBride, superintendent of the Anti-Saloon league, said "the Anti-Saloon league will be ready at any time to meet the issue of repeal."

Ernest H. Cherrington, general secretary of the World League Against Alcoholism, said reported statements by wet newspapers that President Hoover would continue to support prohibition for political reasons was a "tact confession" that the majority of the voters of this country are dry.

Official Washington held aloof from the cross-fire of discussion. Dry leaders in congress, also withheld comment. Some said privately however, the legion's action would have potent political effect.

BEER SURVEY STORY REVEALED TOO EARLY

Kansas City —(AP)—Arthur M. Hyde, secretary of agriculture, said today the announced plan of the department of agriculture to make a survey to determine to what extent agriculture would be benefited by legalized beer was made public prematurely.

The secretary said Washington newspaper correspondents caught him off his guard and obtained the department's plan before he wished to announce it.

"Such a survey has been planned for some time," the secretary said, "but we hadn't planned to begin it yet. Now we must start at once."

Mr. Hyde came here on a personal business trip.

ANTI-CATHOLIC MOVE SPREADING IN MEXICO

Mexico City —(AP)—The newspaper Excelsior today said the anti-Catholic movement sponsored by Gov. Adalberto Tejeda of Vera Cruz was spreading rapidly and predicted that by the end of the year restrictions against the church would be in force throughout the country.

The paper said state laws limiting the number of priests were being prepared in Chihuahua, Jalisco and Aguascalientes and would be enacted within a month, adding that other states would follow suit shortly thereafter.

FRENCH VISIT IN BERLIN MAY BURY HATCHET

Briand Hopes for Genuine Cooperation Between Two Nations

Paris —(AP)—Europe awaits with consuming interest not unmixed with anxiety the results of the official visit that Premier Laval and Foreign Minister Aristide Briand are making to Berlin tonight.

The visit may lead to a "burial of the hatchet" by two great nations which have been more or less antagonistic and certainly mighty rivals for power since the Franco-Prussian war of 1870 and the great war.

M. Briand, "apostle of peace," who has been calumnyed by many of his own people for seeking a rapprochement with Germany, finds in this visit a crowning of his hopes. Worn and broken from age and hard work, he is confident that there are enough peace-loving people in both Germany and France to realize the necessity of genuine cooperation in every line of activity.

M. Laval, France's "laconic" statesman who has won a name both at home and abroad as shrewd and capable leader, will bring to the conversations the freshness and optimism of a comparatively young man, 47.

With France solidly backing his ideas, he will be able to tell Chancellor Bruening and Foreign Minister Curtius that the French republic wishes sincerely to collaborate with its great neighbor, Germany.

Speak For French People

Beth J. and Anna are radiating in their uprightness and both are Socialists. No Frenchman could better serve as messengers of the people. They will speak the voice of the people of France—"the man in the street" as well as of the French government.

Some anxiety has been voiced in Paris as to how Laval and Briand will be received by the people of Germany and whether Fascist followers of Adolf Hitler might stop the representatives against Briand.

But most observers have reacted as assured any fears of expressed hostility. They have pointed out that Franco-German cooperation project has already advanced further than officially admitted and that the conference in Berlin was likely to promote not only a good feeling between France and Germany but also practical economic understandings.

DRY LAW PROPOSAL RAPPED BY W. C. T. U.

Organization Opposes "Prohibition Moratorium of Two Years"

Ashtand —(AP)—Proponents for a "prohibition moratorium of two years" as a measure to relieve unemployment were assailed vigorously today at the state convention of the Women's Christian Temperance union.

The meeting was almost riotous when a delegate explained a plan for a "vacation from the eighteenth amendment." Women rose to their feet shouting "No, No."

Such a suggestion comes not from persons sincerely interested in creating work, but from interests seeking to undermine prohibition, many speakers insisted.

The convention then heartily and unanimously passed resolutions denouncing fruit juice concentrates, slot machines and pincheboards. Wine berries particularly were denounced, and there was a widespread conviction that manufacturers' directors for use of the berries are a violation of law.

Punchboards on merchants' counters are a menace to children, it was said by the resolution which condemned slot machines.

Pictures of girls in elegant advertisements today drew the fire of the state convention of the union. A resolution adopted condemned advertising which associates women with smoking.

ILLINOIS BANK ROBBED

Westmont, Ill.—(AP)—Five men invaded the First State bank of Westmont on Oct. 2 and opened for business today and escaped in their sedan with $10,000. Westmont is a small suburban village, 18 miles west of Chicago.

FEDERAL MEN RAID SALOON AT KIMBERLY

Nicholas Eckes Bound Over to October Term of Court at Milwaukee

As the United States district attorney's office in Milwaukee was filing padlock actions against six Appleton saloons and roadhouses yesterday, two dry agents raided the soft drink parlor of Nicholas Eckes at Kimberly at 4 o'clock Friday afternoon and arrested the proprietor. They charged they found a quantity of whiskey and beer in the place.

Eckes was arraigned before John F. Watermolen, federal court commissioner, at Green Bay this morning on charges of sale and possession of intoxicating liquor. He waived preliminary hearing and was bound over to the October term of federal court at Milwaukee for trial. Eckes' bond for $500 was provided by Robert Lopas, 4124 S. Monroe-st., Green Bay.

Planned To Quit

Eckes said in court at Green Bay this morning that he was planning to quit the business on Oct. 1. He said he intended to move to Appleton.

The six places, against which closing writs are sought, were raided several weeks ago by federal agents. These places are: Hickory Grove, Inn, on the Lake-red just south of Appleton; Green Lantern Gardens, three miles north of Appleton on Highway 47; Log Cabin Inn, nine miles north of Appleton on Highway 47; a soft drink parlor at 605 W. College-ave; a soft drink parlor at 605 W. College-ave; and a soft drink parlor at 605 W. College-ave.

Writs discharging padlock proceedings had been started against all six places. However, charges of violation of the dry law against the proprietor of the place at 605 W. College-ave were dismissed by Commissioner Watermolen at Green Bay recently when it was pointed out that agents neglected to test samples here taken in the raid on the place.

Seek Closing Writs

Milwaukee—(AP)—Padlock actions against 25 establishments raided recently in Milwaukee, Racine, Kenosha, Waukegan and Oshkosh were filed in federal court late yesterday by the district attorney's office.

An equal number of padlock actions were filed by Gilbert E. Vanderveck, assistant prosecutor, 10 days ago. The (Illinois) represent a move on the part of the government to close as quickly as possible places visited in recent raids.

Among the places named several establishments were visited Aug. 28, and scattered soft drink parlors.

The prosecutor said he was awaiting reports of the prohibition department on the 39 raids of saloons and speakeasies in Racine Sept. 11 to determine whether the evidence justified padlock proceedings.

Three men arrested in two of the "Roadhouse row" raids in Kenosha were held to the grand jury after being charged by U. S. Commissioner Floyd Jenkins. They are Arthur Seidve and Martin Pecht, arrested at the Maple Inn. Charges against Charles Buxdorf, arrested at the Maple Inn, were dismissed for lack of evidence.

Commissioner Jenkins also held Tudolph and Herman Knickelbein of Saukville to the grand jury on charges of possessing a still.

LIST DAMAGE DONE IN ROCK-CO STORM ZONE

Janesville —(AP)—E. A. Spees, Red Cross field worker in charge of rebuilding work here today announced the following data as a result of a survey conducted concerning last Monday night's storm in Rock-co.

Buildings destroyed or damaged, 201; homes destroyed, 13; barns destroyed, 33; barns damaged, 33; tobacco sheds destroyed, 37; tobacco sheds damaged, 7; other buildings destroyed, 9.

Crops were destroyed on 67 farms, and 114 families suffered heavy losses.

The relief committee will attempt to raise $25,000 in Rock-co and the National Red Cross will be asked to supply additional funds. National guardsmen and legionnaires tomorrow will assist in patrol and rebuilding work in the storm area.

MAY START EXTRADITION ACTION FOR SUSPECT

Chicago—(AP)—Tomah, Wis., authorities today were expected to attempt extradition for Frank Ostrowski, ski, alias Osborne, held here as a suspect in the $23,000 robbery of the Bank of Tomah in October, 1930.

Witness from Sparta and Janesville viewed Ostrowski yesterday but were not able to identify him as a participant in bank robberies there.

Assistant District Attorney Euclid Taylor said he could produce names who saw Ostrowski in Tomah the day of the robbery.

A hearing on a writ of habeas corpus for Ostrowski's release was continued until Oct. 14.

INDEPENDENT STATES FAVORED IN MANCHURIA

Tokio —(AP)—Tokio officials announced today that two separate movements had been proposed to establish independent states in Manchuria, but that neither was countenanced by Japanese authorities.

PICKFORD'S CONDITION IS CALLED CRITICAL

Los Angeles —(AP)—Dr. Karl Lewis attending Jack Pickford, film actor and brother of Mary Pickford, said today the condition of his patient was critical, but that there was hope for the recovery of the actor.

Pickford, 33, from complications following a severe cold, suffered a stroke three days ago and since that time has been in a semi-comatose condition.

Oleo Injunction Ruling Expected Early In Week

Madison —(AP)—Arguments on a petition for a permanent injunction to restrain the state from enforcing the new oleomargarine tax law were completed yesterday and Circuit Judge A. G. Zimmerman indicated that a decision may be forthcoming Monday.

Ralph W. Jackman, Madison, argued on behalf of oleomargarine companies for the injunction while Samuel Becker, Milwaukee, executive counsel, and Deputy Attorney General Fred M. Wylie represented the state.

"Two points are clear," Judge Zimmerman said. "The court must follow the law with regard to oleomargarine as the Wisconsin Supreme court laid it down. The court must also follow the law, no matter how it leads and regardless of how much the court might like to do something for the farmers of the state."

Week's Weather

The secretary said Washington newspaper correspondents caught him off his guard and obtained the department's plan before he wished to announce it.

Prohibition Assailed And Defended In Episcopalian Report

NO DEFINITE STAND TAKEN BY COMMITTEE

Report Calls Issues "Highly Controversial" and Akin to Politics

Denver.—(P)—Prohibition has joined the list of issues upon which there is registered a difference of opinion among delegates to the general convention of the Protestant Episcopal church.

Prohibition was both criticized and defended in a report by the committee of twenty-one adopted by the house of bishops. The committee, headed by James E. Freeman of Washington, was appointed to consider prohibition and lawlessness, world peace and industrial dislocation.

"There is," the report recites, "widespread and honest difference of opinion in the nation, within the church and among members of this convention as to the wisdom and desirability of retaining the eighteenth amendment and the consequent legislation in their present form."

"There are those who honestly favor the retention of the law as it now stands, believing it has accomplished good, and may accomplish more and better results. Others, not less devoted to the cause, believe that the passage of this law, which in its present form it ministers to disrespect for law and the growth of a dangerous spirit of anarchy."

The committee hesitates to recommend concerted action on grounds that issues involved are "highly controversial and are closely related to partisan politics."

"The enforcement of the prohibition law," the report states, "has been accomplished by graft, corruption, lawlessness, murder and political cowardice and hypocrisy—lawlessness, however, issues in part out of conditions which have not always been given full consideration, such as the enactment of laws, or the failure to repeal laws which do not command or continue to enlist public confidence, and have lost respect and support of a majority of the people."

The ignoring or violation of such laws, the report continues, results solely because the laws affect personal rights and liberties which individuals themselves determine to maintain, regardless of social consequences.

The committee of twenty-one, composed of seven bishops, seven clergymen and seven laymen, urges United States membership in the world court and strict adherence to the Kellogg-Briand pact, outlawing war.

Solution of the problem of industrial dislocation, the committee believes, is the responsibility of the community, with the recognition of the "downmost man as the supreme ethical task of our day."

Consider Other Issues
Problems regarding marriage and divorce and the use of the American marital law, the committee believes, are the responsibility of the house of deputies.

Provisions of the matrimonial canon adopted by the deputies included premarriage instruction, the establishment of an ecclesiastical court in each diocese and missionary district and the right of divorced persons, remarried by civil authorities, to retain their communicant rights in the church after replying to an ecclesiastical court for recognition.

The deputies disposed of the controversy in regard to the American ritual through adoption of a resolution which prohibits the use of portions of the Book of Common Prayer in any other book of worship, or similar book, without authority of the church.

In the failure of the resolution to set forth a provision defining the Book of Common Prayer as the only authorized book of worship of the church, the so-called high church element claimed a victory.

MARRIAGE MATTER OF ECONOMICS, THEY FIND
Milwaukee.—(P)—Marriage, it has been concluded by two girls and two boys of Wauwatosa, is largely a matter of economics.

Wired Irvin, 14, Mary Elizabeth Chase, 13, both juniors in high school students, and Frances Livingston and Harlow Reeseburg are home after an eventful automobile tour which was to culminate in marriage. But among the four of them there was only $3.75.

They visited Chicago, Lake Mills, Wis., where a friend staked them a automobile and then came voluntarily to the Wauwatosa police station. Officers sent them all home.

"We found that it couldn't be done on $3.75," said Reeseburg.

The three jurors who say they only found Mueller guilty because they misunderstood facts in the case are Nelson Galipeau, John Diermeier and George Hesser, all from Appleton.

The jurors, in their affidavits, say that the prosecution in its final argument, told them unless they

"UNEMPLOYMENT" SERVICE
Johnston City, Ill.—(P)—An all-night "unemployment" prayer meeting, ended here early today, without proving much of an attraction for the unemployed. Approximately 200 persons, about 60 per cent of them women, attended, but few of them were jobless.

found Mueller guilty they would find that William Calleebe, also of the town of Center, had been guilty of embezzlement. Mueller was arrested on Calleebe's complaint. He charged that at a town meeting Mueller made a statement to the effect that $2 received by Calleebe was unaccounted for in a town report. Calleebe is the town clerk.

In their affidavits the jurors say that if they had known they could find Mueller not guilty without finding Calleebe guilty of embezzlement, they would never have voted for a verdict of guilty.

Arguments for the new trial are to be heard by Judge Berg on Oct. 8.

BUST UNVEILED TO DRED SCOTT RULING AUTHOR

Charles E. Hughes Pays Warm Tribute to U. S. Fifth Chief Justice

Frederick, Md.—(P)—Frederick looked upon the past today and in the presence of Charles Evans Hughes, chief justice of the United States, unveiled a bust of one of her citizens of another year—Roger Brooke Taney, the country's fifth chief justice and author of the Dred Scott decision.

The ceremonies were held on the steps of the county's 166-year-old courthouse where Taney stood just 100 years ago and defended the action of the government, while he was acting as secretary of the treasury, in withdrawing federal deposits from the Bank of the United States.

The speeches of Chief Justice Hughes and Governor Ritchie, guests of honor, were broadcast over a national network. David Winebrenner 3rd, secretary of state, presided.

Roger Brooke Taney was chief justice of the United States from 1826 to 1864, receiving his appointment from President Andrew Jackson. He served as secretary of the treasury during a recess appointment from 1833 to 1834 and was attorney general of the United States from 1831 to 1833. President Jackson found in him his closest adviser.

The career of Justice Taney was filled with hectic incidents. His appointment as secretary of the treasury was not confirmed by the senate because of the banking incident and later when Jackson named him to the supreme bench the senate again rejected him. His appointment as chief justice came after the death of Chief Justice Marshall.

Defended Decision
His Dred Scott decision, a factor in precipitating the Civil war drew much criticism. Later in life, at the age of 80, he wrote to President Pierce concerning it, "I have abiding confidence that the act of my judicial life will stand the test of time and the sober judgment of the country."

The exercises were preceded by a reception to Justice Hughes in the Taney home and a luncheon. The bust was executed by Joseph Urner, a son of Judge Hammond of the court of appeals of Maryland.

Chief Justice Hughes reviewed the decisions of Chief Justice Taney and told of their effect upon the nation.

"He presided over the supreme court," Justice Hughes said, "at a time of bitterest controversy, ripening into a civil war, maintaining in the face of rancorous criticism and amid the excesses of passion a serenity and dignity, as well as a conscientious devotion to his task, which won the highest praise from the ablest and most discriminating of his associates."

Chief Justice Taney had deep-seated convictions as to the constitutional right of personal liberty and even in the stress of Civil war and at the risk of personal abuse to which indeed he was subjected. He maintained that right against the executive decision that suspension of the writ of habeas corpus was beyond the powers of the president.

Kept Fearless Spirit
"The child just the other day was 84 years old. He had suffered during the years following the Dred Scott case the gravest assaults upon his judicial action and personal character, but, while frail in body and deeply grieved, he was still fearless in spirit, vigorous in mind and unshaken in will. He was ready, without hesitation, to do his duty as he saw it."

Of the Dred Scott case the chief justice said: "It is unfortunate that the estimate of Chief Justice Taney's judicial labors should have been so largely influenced by the opinion he rendered in the case of Dred Scott."

"It should be said, however, that the charge which formed part of the violent and malignant attack upon the decision, that it was the result of a conspiracy or political bargain had not the slightest foundation. Whatever may be said of the merits of the case, or of the scope of the court's determination, or the reasoning employed, there can be no doubt of the integrity of the members of the court and of the sincerity of action of the chief justice."

"In looking at the background of the decision it is apparent that there was a fundamental error in the supposition that the impetuous question which underlay the controversy could be put at rest by a judicial pronouncement. It was an issue definitely settled by the arbitrament of war."

Concluding the story of Chief Justice Taney, Chief Justice Hughes

Women Seek Coast-to-Coast Mark

Mrs. Chubbie Keith-Miller, shown in the cockpit, Australian aviatix, and Mary Adams, right, New York actress, are preparing to hop off from Los Angeles soon in an attempt to set a new transcontinental air record. They will fly a "mystery" ship, capable of more than 250 miles an hour.

Hardy Lilies Loveliness Will Enrich Any Garden

The magnificent hardy lilies have about them such an air of exotic splendor that many home owners are inclined to think that such gorgeous flowers must be difficult to grow. Of course, as with all classes of flowers, there are rare and unusual lilies difficult for the amateur to grow. There are, however, many fine hardy lilies for general planting which can be successfully grown under a wide variation of climatic and soil conditions, and are as easy to grow as other garden flowers if these essentials are observed: (1) Select varieties suited to your location; (2) Plant in well-drained soil; (3) See that the bulbs are enabled to reach the sunlight.

Fall is a good time to plant the addition of some hardy lilies to the garden, and some varieties such as Madonna Lily must be planted as early as possible in the fall so that the top and root growth can be made before winter. These varieties which take more kindly to early spring planting should be included in the plans for next spring's garden. For best results plant lilies where they need not be disturbed for several years, as they do not enjoy frequent moving.

Proper drainage is of great importance in achieving success with hardy lilies. When planted in gravelly and sandy loams a handful of sand underneath each bulb will usually be sufficient. In the case of heavy clay soils, trenches filled with rock and gravel should be arranged as draws to carry off excess soil water from the lily beds.

Lilies do best when their roots are shaded. In the average garden this is accomplished by planting them among the perennials or low-growing shrubs. Plan their location so they will harmonize with the other plants. Do not expect to achieve a charming picture by placing a tall lily among such low-growing plants that it seems awkward and out of place; or hope for success by planting a low grower among coarse, towering shrubs.

The stately pure white Madonna Lily (L. candidum) is the earliest to bloom. It appears when larkspurs are fully suffused with pink on the outside and the center of the trumpet is a glowing canary yellow. It is surprisingly good-natured as to location—whether the soil is moist or dry; placed in full sun or partial shade; planted in a mixed border or given a bed of its own—this majestic lily sends forth its tall stalks crowned with clusters of glorious blooms.

Some of the most gorgeous of the lilies are the spectacular Auratum and Speciosum. The intensely fragrant Gold-banded Japan Lily (Auratum) has always been a great favorite. It grows 4 to 8 feet tall and bears clusters of large magnificent white bloom spotted with crimson-maroon. The petals are curled and waved, and down the center of each is a gleaming band of gold.

Speciosums are always dependable and you make no mistake in including some. The petals of S. rubrum are beautifully reflexed and dotted throughout with wine-red. S. album is pure-white with the exception of a green band at the center of each petal. It is the sweetest of this type and does not grow quite as tall as other kinds.

If suitably selected and properly located in well-drained soil, the hardy lilies are easy to grow and will be a precious addition to your garden. Plan now to plant some this fall and early next spring.

FASCIST ITALY INCREASES AID TO SOVIET UNION

Sends Engineers, Workers and Money to Aid Five Year Plan

Rome.—(P)—Fascist Italy, for all her hatred of communism, within her own borders, is strengthening her relations with soviet Russia.

Within the last few months Italy has sent engineers, workers and money to aid the five year plan and still more recently entertained a party of 340 "industrial pilgrims" from the soviet union.

All of which has its foundation in the plan of Mussolini to use Russia as a base of supplies for the enlarged industrial organization of Italy.

Italy has many workers. She has modern and well planned factories. What she needs are the raw materials to keep her wheels turning, profitably if possible, but at any rate turning.

For this she is looking to Russia, from which by a short sea voyage she hopes to get the oil, coal, iron and lumber of which her industries are in need.

The first step in the closer co-operation of the two countries was a comprehensive trade treaty, now in its second year. This provides for the Russian purchase of Italian manufactured goods worth more than $30,000,000. Naturally Italian purchases are correspondingly large.

Big Business Helps
The Italian trade mission included some of the most important men in Italy, notably one of the Pirelli brothers, heads of the tire firm bearing their name.

But not content with captains of industry and technical experts, Italy has also exported actual brains to supplement the brains she loaned. Building trades workers are being sent to Russia to aid in much needed construction work.

Cash, in payment for almost all the oil Italy consumes, has aided Russian finances.

1,500 AT FARM BUREAU MEETING DESPITE RAIN
Prairie du Sac.—(P)—Nearly 1,500 farmers braved any weather to attend the master day meeting of the Sauk-co branch of the American Farm Bureau here yesterday.

The cooperative movement among farmers, said H. M. Knipfel, formerly with the state marketing division and now connected with the Federal Farm Board has done much toward making farm life more prosperous and attractive, especially to the younger generation.

A report given by Joseph Schwartz, president of the county bureau, showed the bureau has handled 1,900 carloads of livestock which was marketed for $3,000,000.

AUGUST DECLINES ARE NOTED IN BUSINESS
Chicago.—(P)—Further losses during August in the Seventh District industrial employment and earnings were indicated by reports from 2,753 establishments compiled for the monthly business conditions report of the Federal Reserve bank of Chicago which will be issued Wednesday.

An eminent scientist writes the head chemist in our Research Department:

"Chesterfield Cigarettes are just as pure as the water you drink"

THE WATER YOU DRINK is tested from time to time by expert chemists to make sure that it is free from all injurious substances—that it is pure.

So it is in the manufacture of CHESTERFIELD cigarettes. Expert chemists test all the materials that are used in any way in CHESTERFIELD's manufacture, to make sure that everything that goes into CHESTERFIELD is just right.

THE LEAF TOBACCO IS PURE. Long steel ovens—drying machines of the most modern type—scientifically "dry" and clean and purify the natural tobacco leaves by exact high-temperature treatment.

Then the shreds of cut tobacco, as you see them in your CHESTERFIELD, are again heated, cleaned and purified. From these pure tobaccos the cigarettes are made, and only the purest paper—the best that can be made—is used for CHESTERFIELD.

Cigarettes used to be made in an old-fashioned way, by hand. Now, no hand but yours touches CHESTERFIELD—another purity safeguard.

CHESTERFIELDS are made and packed in clean, sanitary factories where even the air is changed every four and one-half minutes—purity again.

ALL THIS CARE is taken to give you CHESTERFIELDS as nearly perfect as cigarettes can be made. Delivered in a moisture-proof, sealed package, they reach you just as good, just as pure as when they leave the factory. Good... they've got to be good—they're just as pure as the water you drink!

Driver Of Automobile In Fatal Crash Is Ordered Held For Trial

JUDGE DENIES MOTION ASKING FOR DISMISSAL

Eye Witnesses Disagree on Speed of Cars Which Figured in Accident

Seaburn T. Whitley, Jr., 228 Lake Shore-dr., Chicago, was bound over for trial on a charge of fourth degree manslaughter following his preliminary hearing in municipal court before Judge Theodore Berg yesterday afternoon. Motions of defense attorneys for dismissal were denied by Judge Berg. Bonds of $1,000 were furnished. Whitley will be tried at the next term of circuit court.

A warrant was issued for Whitley on Sept. 8, a week after the car he was driving crashed into another machine at the intersection of Highway 10 and 28, west of Appleton. Four people died as a result of the crash and Whitley admitted, on being questioned after the accident, after the accident, that he did not stop for the arterial sign until it was too late to stop. Whitley was driving a car owned by the father of William Marsh, 18, Chicago. Marsh was fatally hurt. Whitley escaped uninjured, but Sheldon White, Highland Park, Ill., another occupant of the car, was slightly hurt.

Three people in the car which was struck by the Chicago machine were killed. They were: Mrs. Louis Zurn, Marshfield; Allen Zurn, her daughter; Marshfield; and Mrs. A. H. Matthes, Appleton. Mr. Matthes was driving the other car.

Call Five Witnesses
Five witnesses were called by the state yesterday, two of them being eye witnesses who did not agree on all of their testimony. Martin Smith, who operates a garage and filling station at the corner where the fatal accident occurred, said he was attracted by the hum of the motor of the Chicago car. He estimated the machine was traveling between 45 and 50 miles an hour when it was from the intersection. He said the driver made no effort to put on the brakes. He estimated the Matthes car was going between 25 and 30 miles an hour and that it was past the middle of the intersection when it was struck. On cross examination Smith said there have been 10 or 12 people killed in automobile accidents at this intersection in the last five or six seasons.

Harry DeBruin, who operates a store at the northeast corner of the intersection, also testified to seeing the crash. He said, however, that the Matthes car was traveling about 45 miles an hour and the Chicago car only about 40 miles an hour.

Alva J. Carter, an Appleton photographer, told of taking several groups of pictures of the scene of the accident. Charles Steidl and Peter Van Oudenhoven, county mortuary officers, told of assisting in clearing away the wreckage of the cars and sending the occupants to the hospital.

OFFICERS CONFINED AFTER MAKING PROTEST

Ferrol, Spain (AP)—About 200 petty officers in the Spanish navy were confined to their quarters under arrest today as the aftermath of their protests against what they called unfair discrimination in increasing pay of naval engineers but not that of the deck force.

Authorities denied any arrests had been made or that a mutiny had occurred, but it was learned the men had been confined after they had sent telegrams of protest to the minister of the navy. The battleship Jaime, the cruiser Espana, six torpedo boats and four submarines were involved.

College Receives Copy Of Hunter's Hand-Made Book

A copy of the hand-made "Primitive Paper Making" by Dard Hunter, the "modern Gutenberg," was received Friday by Lawrence college. The volume sent here is the one hundred and ninety-eighth of the edition which numbered only 200. Because of the method of production, there will be no more issues of the book.

Mr. Hunter, who last spring was given an honorary degree in literature by Lawrence college, startled the world several years ago with the

COMSTOCK NAMED PRESS GROUP HEAD

While most association activities are pending until after the membership campaign, a few physical department programs have been started. William D. Farnum, activity secretary, is selecting a social activity committee which will plan a series of meetings this fall.

CHINESE MOB LINDY PLANE SEEKING FOOD

plane to distribute medical units throughout Kiangsu province flood zone. It seemed likely the scheme would be abandoned.

In the past month Hinghsua has been virtually isolated with the city under ten feet of water and the nearby land 25 miles away. But little food has reached the city and the supply is at its lowest.

As soon as Col. Lindbergh brought his plane to rest on Hinghsua's floodwaters there was a desperate rush of sampans toward it, the destitute throng believing food had at last arrived.

A majority had never seen an airplane closely before and many thought it to be some kind of miraculous intervention.

Amid the clamor rose the cries of women and children. Hundreds of hands stretched out for the packages visible in the plane's fuselage.

Dr. Liu, the only member of the party who could speak Chinese, tried to explain the mission but his voice was lost in the din. Jumping from sampan to sampan, he tried to retrieve many of the packages grabbed by the throng and explain that they contained medicines, but his efforts were in vain.

Many of the packages were torn open. Cries of disappointment arose when it was discovered they contained no food. The situation began to look desperate.

Dr. Liu regained the plane with difficulty, leaving the crowd fighting over the packages.

Col. Lindbergh maneuvered into a comparatively clear space, taxied slowly out of the gordon of sampans and soared toward Nanking.

The party said they believed it would be impossible to place doctors in the flooded towns unless accompanied by military escorts.

LITTLE THEATRE PLANS PROGRAM

Each Play to Be Presented in Two Performances, Board Decides

Each play in the series to be presented this fall and winter in Appleton by the amateur dramatic organization, The Little Theatre of the Fox River Valley, will have two performances; the board of directors decided at its first business session of the season Friday night at the L. Bonini home, 602 E. Eldorado-st.

A general meeting of the Little theatre group will be held at 7:30 Tuesday night at the little theatre, Lawrence chapel.

Plans were made to organize a charter membership, with the purchase of season tickets by the members to include all the plays on the season program. This will be discussed at the general meeting. The two performances for each play during the winter were arranged for Friday night and Saturday afternoon, to enable parents to accompany their children to the Friday performances.

Board members at the meeting include John Schiebler, Mrs. Frank Hammer, Allan Harwood, E. Theodore Clark, Albin Ogilvie, Robert Bonini, John Ash and Miss Evelyn Long.

COMMISSION ASKED TO BAR RADIO STATION

Washington (AP)—The radio commission was asked today to take Radio State KGEF, Los Angeles' air of the Rev. R. P. Shuler off the air.

Thomas P. Littlepage, representing Los Angeles opponents of the station, said the station is a Methodist church, South, said Shuler attacked public officials, the Catholic church, Jews and judges and that the station was not serving in the public interest.

Shuler was present to meet the argument with a demand that the commission renew the station license as was recommended by Chief Examiner Ost.

Littlepage said the examiner had found that Shuler occupied only one-eighth of the station's time.

FIND NO NEW CASES OF INFANTILE PARALYSIS

No new cases of infantile paralysis have developed in this city since the first of the week. The quarantine on the case reported last week has been lifted, careful observation over a period of 10 days showed that although the symptoms justified a diagnosis of infantile paralysis it really was not. The condition of the only victim of the disease in the city is steadily improving, and it is hoped that the coming of cooler weather has definitely checked any spread of the disease.

Prohibitionists' Remarks About Legion Amuse Vets

Statements from prohibitionists, which they characterized as very unfair, were of more interest to Appleton legionnaires who returned Friday from the national convention at Detroit, than the fact that they had voted for a referendum on the prohibition question.

The charge that almost all the legionnaires, and especially those who took part in the campaign to put the legion on record for the referendum, were under the influence of liquor, is absurd, they claim.

Several Appleton veterans said the 100,000 or more veterans who attended the convention were most orderly, that in very few instances were intoxicated men seen and that compared with most conventions of men there was very little intoxication.

Appleton veterans were pleased that a former member of the post, H. L. Plummer, should be elected

DANES FIND FAULT WITH U. S. EFFORTS

Sharp Criticism Made in Regard to Work in Virgin Islands

Copenhagen (AP)—Some sharp criticism of the low state to which the Virgin Islands have fallen since their sale by Denmark to the United States has been heard here.

The chief complaint is that the United States has failed to fulfill a moral obligation to compensate the islands for their loss of the bay waters and the exemption of prohibition laws or to provide some other means of livelihood.

"President Hoover recently called the Virgin Islands the poorest of the United States, but nothing effective is being done to prevent their becoming a pauper's churchyard," said Hans Nielsen, chairman of a number of parliamentary committees who recently returned from a trip there.

"When Denmark agreed to sell the islands to America we believed an era of prosperity was at hand for them. But the ever growing unemployment has been catastrophic."

said she would go to police headquarters if she could be protected from any contact with the press or public.

Police swathed her in blankets so tightly she could scarcely walk and in this manner, looking more like a mummy than a woman, she was half-dragged, half-carried out of the building and into an automobile.

"We didn't get any information from her and I don't believe she had any," said Assistant District Attorney Fred J. Munder of Suffolk-co.

"I think a wrong construction was placed on words she uttered."

Asked to whom Miss Muttart had uttered these words, Munder said he "would not care to state."

The nurse was questioned at length in police headquarters after she had finally consented to leave her apartment. A reporter for a New York city newspaper was also questioned concerning the report that Miss Muttart had important information.

national vice commander. They revealed in the hit that "Eddie" Bass made with his high wheeled bicycle, one of the features of the big legion parade.

The parade started at 11 o'clock in the morning and continued for eight hours as unit upon unit from all over the country passed.

Eric L. Madisen, editor of the Badger Legionnaire, was most interested in the arrangements for press correspondents. Representing the state publication, he was admitted to the press row where reporters and special writers from all over the country sat taking in convention proceedings and writing their stories. The battery of silent telegraph sending machines was of much interest, as was the army of messenger boys ready to dash off on an errand.

Reporters Kept Busy

Those who were to write special articles took their notes in leisurely manner, but for the reporters who were to keep running stories of the convention on the wires, it was a case of write a paragraph or two and shove it to a telegrapher and then get back to writing some more.

Batteries of press camera men with their cameras and flash light bulbs were another interesting feature, he said, as were the movie camera men and the powerful lights that swept the auditorium as cameramen trained their machines on persons of note and ground out hundreds of feet of film.

The fact that there was little display of feeling from the floor when the vote on the prohibition question was announced was most interesting to Marshall C. Craft, executive committee man from Wisconsin. He stated that the demonstration was so tame that many camera men and newspaper photographers refused to waste a plate or film for a picture.

While the vote on the prohibition question was overwhelmingly in favor of the referendum, the three hundred or more veterans who voted "no" did not oppose the plan but rather considered it was not the legion's place to enter what may be a political issue later, it was pointed out.

UNEMPLOYMENT IS RECOGNIZED AS IMPORTANT ISSUE

Babson Is Optimistic Following Conference of Business Leaders

Babson Park, Mass.—Here at Babson Park we have just held the Eighteenth Annual National Business conference, at which business men, labor leaders, investors, bankers, and Government officials gathered to discuss the pressing problems of the moment. Labor and unemployment was recognized as the most important issue. I want to say that as a result of this conference, I personally am more optimistic on the outlook for business and for unemployment than I have been at any time during the depression. I am optimistic because I saw this representative group of American people from all parts of the country were imbued with a new spirit of courage, determination, and unselfishness—a desire to get back to the fundamentals of thinking, living, and working which built up this great country.

Assistant Secretary of Labor, W. H. H. speaking for Secretary Doak, struck the keynote at the conference when he said: "We need a rebirth of the spirit that has given this country the foremost place among nations. President Hoover has said: 'Economic depression cannot be cured by legislation or executive pronouncement.' To me, at any rate, this is an axiom. Something else is needed and that something is what is known as the 'I will' spirit." As the discussion progressed, opinion crystallized on this point, namely, that it is not money, commodities, machinery, legislation, or other material things that the world needs today, but rather a renewal of spiritual forces. This alone will give the confidence which all nations so sorely need. Proceeding on these fundamental principles, the conference then outlined a practical program whereby these principles may be put into effect.

Put Young in Schools
Recognizing that the unemployed workers need most, while waiting for work, is training for future employment and restoration of his courage, the conference passed the following resolutions which were forwarded to the Gifford Committee for Unemployment Relief: (1) That the Smith-Hughes bill be revised to permit schools to take the adult worker who is out of employment, and in order that the unemployment situation may be relieved, all workers under 18 be released and kept in school. If this were done all, or a large proportion of adults could be given employment. (2) That any worker under 18 should be permitted to attend school during this period of unemployment and that he shall be reimbursed by a fair sum. His schooling would not require additional school buildings because our buildings are being used only six hours a day at present. The teachers required might lessen the unemployment in the teaching ranks.

(3) That the courses of education for such young workers should be carefully planned in order that they might contribute not only to intellectual development, but much more to the spiritual and vocational equipment of such young people. This spiritual awakening and training should be given both for the individual's welfare and for the welfare of our democracy. Instead of "doles" merely of money, should we not also dole out judgment and courage? (4) That further taxes are justifiable for unemployment relief only provided the money is distributed for non-competitive work, such as rebuilding our slums, for sane education of a vocational nature, and for awakening the souls of men and women in a truly constructive way.

Against Hoarding
I also believe that a national campaign against "hoarding," a campaign based on patriotic grounds such as sold Liberty Bonds during the War, would do much good in starting money back into circulation, speeding up business, and giving men jobs. It is astonishingly true that over $20,000,000 has been taken out of circulation and hoarded away in safe deposit boxes, attics, cellars, trunks, and possibly hollowed out in the castles of automobile accidents. As people, who have no need to, have cut down necessary expenditures merely because "depression psychology" has frightened them. Those whose incomes have not been lowered ought to pursue their normal living, and to buy those things which they need, thus affording work for their less fortunate brothers. The very life blood of business is the rapid circulation of money. Hence, this hoarding is a pernicious thing and brands the hoarder as both cowardly and unpatriotic. There is plenty of money in this country, but because of lack of confidence and because of unreasonable terror much of it is temporarily hidden away. Get it out again and business and employment will at once revive.

Furthermore, those well-to-do people, who fear the dole with its increase in taxes had far better spend money for commodities than have it taken away from them in "dole" taxes. By buying goods now they will help the unemployed more than by any public or private charity, and make the dole unnecessary. I do not mean that there should be extravagance. We are suffering now from the effects of the extravagances of 1928 and 1929. Rather, I mean buying of useful things at present bargain levels, things which they are now refraining from buying for fear of being criticized or because they have become panicky over conditions. Remember that unemployed dollars make unemployed men. Fear self-protection, for humanity's sake, and for patriotism, every one who can afford to should buy goods now.

Share Responsibility
On the whole business men have acted nobly in these trying times. They have let workers go only when they were forced to and have tried

Dollar's Buying Power Now $1.43 In Wholesale

BY ALLARD SMITH
Executive Vice President, The Union Trust Co., Cleveland, O.

Wholesale prices have dropped back to the level prevailing in 1913. Counting the wholesale dollar as worth 100 cents in 1926, it now has a purchasing power of $1.43. This is exactly what it was in 1913 and it compares with a low value of 65 cents in 1920.

The wholesale price index is based on averages for different groups of commodities. Taken by groups the price declines are shown to differ considerably. Again using the 1926 value as the basis of comparison, the present day dollar is worth $1.54 in the purchase of farm products, $1.37 for foods, $1.53 for textiles, $1.72 for fuel and lighting, $1.32 for building materials and $1.14 for house furnishings material. The greatest change is found in automobiles tires, where the 1926 dollar is worth $2.19.

The average cost of living does not reflect as great a decrease as wholesale commodity prices, although the purchasing power of the dollar at retail has been rapidly rising this year. Wholesale commodity prices feel the first effect of price deflation, retail price reductions often continuing after wholesale prices have turned upward.

It costs 30 per cent less for the American family to live than it did at the peak of post-war prices, 12 per cent less than at the beginning of the deflation in 1929 and 10 per cent less than it did a year ago. Food and clothing prices have recorded more than any other items in the family budget, the declines from the peak of 1929 being 26 and 21 per cent respectively. The history of previous periods of deflation has been that prices recover much more slowly than they fall.

DEVISE PUMP FOR FIGHTING PEAT AND MARSH FIRES

Unit May Be Easily Transported from One Place to Another

Madison—(P)—A compact, powerful pump unit which may be transported with ease has been constructed at the University of Wisconsin college of agriculture for use in fighting marsh and peat fires.

The unit will be turned over to the state conservation commission next week and is expected to go into action at Friendship in a short time. Alfred Wojta and Lawrence Dewey constructed the unit under direction of F. W. Duffee, professor of agricultural engineering.

It consists of a 50 horsepower Wisconsin pump which will put the unit stage centrifugal pump, both mounted on an eight-inch frame on a 12 foot trailer. The engine has six cylinders and through the pump creates a pressure of 115 pounds. The pump will shoot 500 gallons a minute, or almost three-quarters of a million gallons a day, depending upon the suction head.

The trailer has pneumatic tires which will permit the unit to be hauled on highways by trucks. Caterpillar tractors will pull the unit through brush and marshes. It will carry 2,000 feet of three-inch hose and 400 feet of 1 1/2 inch hose to permit operation almost a half mile from the water supply.

In a test near the laboratory the pump developed a pressure that necessitated two men at each of the two hoses which were attached. A searchlight which may be swung in any direction has been mounted on top of the unit to permit fire fighting at night.

Peat and marsh fires have burned in Sheboygan, on Horicon marsh and in the Portage area this summer, defying the conventional means of extermination. The conservation commission ordered the new unit constructed in the belief that peat fires particularly can be extinguished only through the use of a great amount of water. The unit could probably be used to advantage to combat forest fires if roads permit its transportation to a source of water supply.

BLAME SELFISHNESS FOR MOTOR ACCIDENTS

Chicago—(P)—Egotism and selfishness, rather than physical or mental deficiencies, are prime factors in the cause of automobile accidents, in the opinion of Dr. Paul Schroeder, Illinois state criminologist.

Dr. Schroeder reached this conclusion after studying the records and temperaments of prisoners at the state penitentiary convicted of manslaughter with an automobile. "These men were all of average intelligence and average physical fitness," he said. "But in nearly every case I found marked traits of selfishness, egotism and disregard for the feelings of others."

There are 15 divorces to every 100 marriages in the United States. The majority of wives who divorce their husbands do so on the plea of cruelty or desertion.

To maintain wages. However, no really constructive leadership has arisen from the ranks of business to help in solving unemployment. The time has come when business must either take its share of this responsibility or turn the whole question over to the Government.

If business allows the Government to take over the whole burden of the unemployed then it should not now register 27 per cent below normal, or 12 per cent below what it was at this time a year ago.

SUGGEST LOCAL SUBSIDIZING OF ELECTRIC LINES

See Chance for Municipalities to Solve Parking Problems

BY GEORGE E. DOYING
Copyright 1931, By Cons. Press

Washington—(CPA)—It may prove to be cheaper for municipalities to subsidize street railway operation than to attempt to solve the motor vehicle parking and traffic problems which are becoming increasingly acute, it is suggested by the Wisconsin Public Service commission.

Apparently it will be necessary to do something about the interurban electric lines also, judging from a statement of 1930 decreases just issued by the interstate commerce commission, showing the abandonment during 1930 of about 10 electric line between St. Louis, Mo., and Wheeling, W. Va., in which petition this subsidiary of the West Penn Electric Co. asks permission to keep in effect the low passenger fares under which it has been operating since last March.

Serious Condition
Despite extensive improvements in its service and reduced fares, the Wheeling company is in a precarious condition and there is a serious question whether it can avoid a receivership, the commission was informed.

The Wisconsin commission, however, points with pride to progress made by the Milwaukee Electric Railway and Light Co. in its Milwaukee street car service and announces that experiments with weekly passes and other devices have enabled the company to hold the decrease in business during June and July to 5.1 per cent, while losses in other cities were recorded as follows: Detroit, 19.5 per cent; Cleveland, 15.3; Indianapolis, 12.3; Baltimore, 11.1; Cincinnati, 11.4; Pittsburgh, 15.4; Minneapolis-St. Paul, 10.7 per cent.

"It is hardly too much to say," said the Wisconsin commission, "that these utilities have come to be regarded as moribund in cities of a minimum traffic density. Their owners and operators seem to have taken a fatalistic view, indicating by their conduct that they feel powerless to change the riding habits of the community, and that it can only be a matter of time until most of the survivors will also be overcome by the persistent tide of red figures."

See Change Soon
"It may be, however," it was suggested in the Wisconsin opinion by Commissioner David E. Lillenthal, "that the pendulum has swung as far toward individual urban transportation as it may, and that considerations of convenience and cost will soon force a greater reliance upon the street and electric railway."

The investment in road and equipment of the electric lines reporting to the interstate commerce commission decreased by $155,000,000 during 1930, and the mileage operated decreased from 10,075 to 8,058. Expenses decreased by $14,000,000 along with a revenue decline of $17,000,000. Dividends paid in 1929 amounted to $25,281,475, while in 1930 they decreased to $20,750,216. The number of employees dropped from 47,397 to 38,769, their compensation showing a corresponding decline from $77,259,693 to $66,857,961.

The number of buses operated by these electric lines also showed a decrease, having dropped from 1,008 in 1929 to 755 in 1930.

MORE PROHIBITION STRAWS

Developments in the prohibition controversy have been coming thick and fast in the past two weeks. The latest significant move is that by the American Legion National convention which by a better than two to one vote has asked congress to submit repeal or modification of the present prohibition laws to the states, with the request that each state submit the issue to its voters. The Legion resolution declares that the Eighteenth amendment has created a condition endangering respect for law and the security of American institutions. There is also news from Washington that might have an important bearing on the subject. Secretary of Agriculture Arthur M. Hyde has announced that he will soon undertake an investigation of the economic aspects with regard to agriculture of proposals to permit the manufacture of beer. The secretary said he was making the survey purely as a personal matter. A White House secretary asked the census bureau for information concerning brewery works. These developments, while perhaps not of great importance, will afford the wets at least temporary encouragement.

There have been rumors emanating from Washington that President Hoover planned to ask congress when it convenes in December to legalize beer and light wines. Apparently these rumors are groundless, for sources close to the president have announced that he plans no such action and that he still considers the Eighteenth amendment a noble experiment and wants to give it a further trial.

Perhaps, after all, these developments will be just mirages in the desert as far as the wets are concerned but they do show that the administration is gathering data on just what the economic effects would be if beer of 24 or 3 per cent of alcoholic content were legalized. One leading brewer has estimated that the return of beer would put about a million men to work and that it would in large measure speed the return of prosperity. Frankly, we think his figures are overdrawn and that the economic aspects of the situation would not be nearly as far-reaching as he declares.

The vote of the Legion delegates by states, we believe, fairly well reflects the wet and dry sentiment throughout the country. These delegates, representative citizens, are drawn from every walk of life and their opinions and beliefs, and economic and social theories, will be found to be about the same as that of the average citizen throughout the country. A majority of the southern and some of the middle western states that were notoriously dry before the Eighteenth amendment was adopted, voted against repeal. Alabama, however, voted in favor of repeal. So did Georgia, Florida, Kentucky, North Carolina and Louisiana. Tennessee, Texas, Mississippi, Kansas and Arkansas voted no, indicating that sentiment was still strong in those states in favor of the Eighteenth amendment. As was to be expected Massachusetts, Illinois, New Jersey, New York and Wisconsin, the wet states, voted to a man for repeal. The total vote of the delegates was 1,008 for congress to submit repeal or modification to 394 against.

After better than ten years trial of the prohibition law there is every reason to believe that if the question were submitted to the states that is just about how the popular vote would line up with the odds in favor of repeal or modification. No one can deny that there has been a steady shift in sentiment regarding the workability of the Eighteenth amendment and we believe that if this question alone were submitted to the American people tomorrow the majority of them would vote for a change. Last year the American Legion convention discussed the possibility of voting on this same question but the dry forces were so strong on the floor of the convention at that time that an effort to bring the matter up was blocked. Apparently since then many converts to the wet cause have been made and there wasn't very much opposition to voting on the question this year.

No one really believes that the action of the Legion delegates will bring about the immediate return of beer and light wines, but at least it might have the effect of hastening the day when congress will give this matter its earnest consideration and make a sincere effort to settle this most pressing problem. It will have to be dealt with eventually so congress might as well make a start now.

CIVILIZED CITIES

How may a city's degree of civilization be estimated? The question comes up now and then when some magazine writer devotes an article to the subject. The latest such attention-caller is "Civilization in American Cities," an article by R. L. Duffus, appearing in the current Scribner's.

Anyone who wants to grade his own town must consider such items as low death rate, amount of money per capita spent for reading, amount of support given to purely creative artists, homicide rate, tolerance, interest in schools and arts, living standards of average citizen, and so on. Doubtless the use of leisure time is an important factor as well as the amount of leisure. Some people will feel that a community's international outlook has to be considered, too, a contemptuous attitude toward one's neighbor across the street or across the ocean being hardly worthy of the civilized man or community.

Rivalry among American cities as to which of them is most civilized seems a silly thing. But it might do all of them good to consider the general characteristics of civilization and to study them carefully with reference to their own citizens and their own civic life.

THE EVERLASTING LAND

There is said to be a new back-to-the-land movement at present—not a scramble by any means, but a slow, widespread tendency apparent in America and throughout the rest of the industrial world, like an ebb tide from the cities.

This is natural, perhaps inevitable. Bad as agricultural conditions are, almost anyone can see that when there is no work in town, a family is better off in the country. There is always work there. And though it may not pay much in money, or even in comfort, it usually manages to sustain life and provide certain basic and enduring satisfactions that are hard to realize in city life.

The land is always there, waiting. From it all men came. Back to it all men go. By it all men are sustained, directly or indirectly, no matter how artificial and complicated life becomes. It is reassuring to realize once more that the universal mother stands ready to welcome back her children in time of need. Touching the earth again, like fabled Antaeus, they gain new strength for life's wrestle and see life with new sanity.

Opinions Of Others

TARIFF TRADE LOSSES

The United States had an "unfavorable" balance of trade in August, the first for any month since May of 1929. The value of our imports exceeded the value of our exports by a million dollars, although the balance for the eight months of this year remains in our favor.

Buying more than we sell may or may not be a cause for worry. It we have too much gold—more than half the world supply—and our excess of purchases causes its export, a so-called unfavorable balance might be beneficial.

There is no doubt, however, that the continuing decline in our foreign trade is a matter for concern. August exports were $165,000,000, compared with $297,785,000 last year. Imports were $166,000,000, whereas last year they were $218,472,000. Our August exports for five years before 1929 had been in excess of $275,000,000.

Declining exports of course mean a smaller production of goods, more closed factories and more idle men. It means the destruction of the export margin which in past years has absorbed our surpluses, and which President Hoover, economists and business men have said made the difference between prosperity and hard times.—New York World-Telegram.

TWELVE MILLIONS FOR RELIEF

On the Thames below Oxford, across the river from the Wottonham Clumps, rise some ancient Roman earthworks. In days gone by a wealthy nobleman who lived near by tried to relieve unemployment by setting men to work shoveling them away. The works still stand, a monument not alone to the skill of the men who built them, but to the utility of "made work" which serves no useful public purpose. The present committee realized this when it set about finding work for the host of men out of work here last winter. It sought to avert both the dole and that wretched substitute, unproductive work. In the end it solved the problem by finding jobs for twenty-five thousand men in the parks and in various non-profit-making agencies where they could do real work and see the result of their work, the community, as well as the unemployed benefited from the expenditure of that $8,500,000 fund.—New York Times.

There are 10,000 villages in America without churches, 30,000 without resident pastors, and 30,400,000 children under 12 who are receiving no religious instructions.

THINGS look very bleak around the office just now. . . it's raining. . . but that wouldn't mean anything if somebody hadn't borrowed our slicker. . . and it isn't back yet. . . one of those anonymous borrowings. . . and as soon as the weatherman suspected it was missing, he turned on the sprinklers. . . if the damned thing doesn't turn up pretty soon, we'll have to start looking in people's pockets for it. . .

The swell new dance numbers don't appear to be increasing in quantity of late. We mentioned "Sweet and Lovely," "Who Am I," "Dancing in the Dark," and a couple others—some time ago. ## TEN YEARS AGO

The logical location of the proposed new viaduct across Fox river was at the end of Cherry-st., according to the majority of those who expressed their views at the hearing before F. E. Turnure of the Wisconsin Highway commission at the city hall that morning.

Miss Mary Simon, daughter of Mrs. Katherine Simon, 733 Duane-st., and A. W. Thompson, Jr., Oak Park, Ill., were married at 11 o'clock that morning at St. Mary church.

A son was born the previous Thursday to Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Quella, 1019 Third-st.

Seven hundred Ontonagon-area men had become full fledged citizens in the past two months pending the coming into force of the new naturalization laws on Sept. 27.

THE BREATHING MACHINE IN THE BACKWARD BURG

According to pictures of the tragic fire in Pittsburgh, as published in the newspapers, that city has not yet seen the light. In the pictures brave firemen were shown going through the motions of resuscitating victims of the fire with a pulmotor, or lungmotor, or some such air pump apparatus.

If these news pictures were actually pictures of occurrences at the fire and not just posed pictures made to gratify the vanity of the firemen, it would seem that the victims of the fire were not given a fair chance.

Certainly the application of such a breathing machine or pump is antiquated and unjustifiable in this day of enlightenment. If the educational spirit of the burg is so enemic that the firemen of the town are to be permitted to pull off such stunts in a time of resuscitation, then there must be something radically wrong with Pittsburgh.

Quite frequently one reads about attempts to resuscitate victims of drowning or asphyxiation with a "pulsator" — but one likes to assume that this is just a bit of divination on the part of the reporter who gets the story secondhand or by long distance communication, and that in fact no such atrocity has been perpetrated.

Whatever the pictures and the stories may say about it, there can be no question that prone-pressure artificial respiration, by the Schafer method, is always safer and more effective than can be the use of any breathing machine. And in any community that is out of the dark ages there should be available for such emergencies inhalators to provide oxygen and carbon dioxide while the prone-pressure artificial respiration is being applied. An inhalator is not a pump, not a machine, requires no engineer, not even a fireman. It is merely a couple of tanks or cylinders of compressed oxygen and carbon dioxide, and an inflatable rubber bag from which the victim may inhale the 93-7 per cent mixture of oxygen and carbonic acid gas (carbon dioxide). It adds much to the value of the prone-pressure manual artificial respiration or resuscitation, but it is of no use without such manual artificial respiration.

Carbon dioxide, you see, is what makes us breathe. Oxygen does not make us breathe. Give a person a few whiffs of pure oxygen and he ceases breathing altogether for from two to eight minutes. Give him a few whiffs of diluted carbon dioxide, anything up to 7 or 8 per cent in air or oxygen and he will breathe deeply and rapidly.

So for heaven's sake, Pittsburgh, out out the comical Fireman Save My Child act and give your smoke asphyxiated victims a chance. Any Boy Scout or Girl Scout can show the dumb eggs in the health department, police department or the fire department how to resuscitate.

Boy Big Eater But Thin

I am 17 years old and in perfect health, but I gain no weight. I eat a great deal and the right kind of foods, but 10 minutes after a meal I am ready to eat again. I am 11 ways hungry. (Mrs. C. B.)

Answer—No, it takes very little to maintain a fatwurm. Most persons who have fatwurm are well nourished or overnourished and have just ordinary appetite. You should have a thorough physical examination by your family doctor, and perhaps a course of insulin treatment to help you gain weight.

Cataract

Would alum water be injurious to the eyes? I have dissolved my tonsils by gargling with a teaspoonful of alum in a quart of water. I have heard that alum would take cataract out of the eyes. My mother has cataract. (Mrs. B. S. S.)

Answer—Cataract is not on, but in the eyes. Cataract is a clouding or opacity in the crystalline lens. Therefore no external remedy can remove it. Only surgery can remove cataract. Alum water would be extremely irritating and injurious to the eyes, except under the care of the oculist.

Cracked Ice

Please advise me if it is harmful to eat from a pint to a quart of cracked ice daily. (Mrs. J. B.)

Answer—It is harmless.

Holding the Breath

In reply to a query about holding the breath you stated that the normal individual can hold his breath 40 seconds. My sister and I tried out of curiosity and neither of us can manage more than 25 seconds. Does this mean anything in particular? (E. J.)

Answer—No, but when one cannot hold the breath 40 seconds or longer it suggests some impairment of the circulation. You should have a complete health examination just for assurance.

The Tynymites

By Hal Cochran

TWO slanting walks were by the stairs and Clowdy shouted, "Gee, you care about walking up the tressome steps when walks are right handy? It's going to have an easy trip to the top, unless I slip." He shortly found, however, that the walk climb made him sigh.

They finally reached the top and then they all sat down to rest again. All of a sudden Carpy cried, "Here comes an ice cream man." Then to the man he shouted, "Hey! We'll have some cold ice cream to-day." The Travel Man said, "Go ahead and eat all that you can."

"Was just as cold as it could be and Clowdy agreed, "Oh, gee! My hands are cold from holding it so tight. What can I do?" They heard the ice cream man then say, "Of course it's cold. It's made that way. But it won't freeze your hands if you get it inside of you."

When everyone had had his share the others saw wee Clowdy tear right down the street and stop before a window which was filled with postcard views. They heard him cry, "What pretty scenes. Oh, me, oh my! If I could see that monstrous mountain, I would sure be thrilled."

The Travel Man said, "Well, my son, if you think that would be real fun, we'll take a ride right out there and you'll see a dandy view." It didn't take them long because they sped to where the mountain was. The Travel Man said, "I'll explain that highest peak to you."

"You see, it rises 'way up high and points directly toward the sky. The smaller peaks beside it make it look just like a hand." Then Scouty said, "I'd hate to try to climb it 'cause it's far too high. I'm satisfied to stand right here and look at it. It's grand!"

A Bystander In Washington

By HERBERT PLUMMER

Washington—In front of one of Georgetown's historic mansions, almost any morning when congress is in session, a youthful chap of athletic build may be seen mounting a bicycle.

Few recognize him as he pedals his way down the streets of Washington's old and exclusive suburb toward capitol hill.

Probably not many would believe were they told that the rider is a member of congress—that he is the sole representative in the house of a western state—that he is a man of wealth and social position.

But Lewis "Lou" Douglas of Arizona is all these things.

He rides his bicycle to work because he like that form of exercise. It's several miles from Georgetown to the capitol, and a man who likes it is assured of a good workout.

War—And Dam—Veteran

Douglas, who observed his thirty-seventh birthday in July, despite his comparative youth has had a life of varied activity. Scion of a famous family of mine owners, operators and bankers, he himself has been a student, a soldier, a farmer, a miner, a state legislator and a congressman.

Arizona sent him to Washington for the first time to represent the state at large in the seventy-first congress. His constituent must have been pleased with his work, because he had no opposition for reelection either in the primary or the general election.

In his native state, especially in his home town of Bisbee, they call Douglas "Arizona's fighting congressman." Probably it's because General Pershing cited him for bravery in the Argonne offensive and he was decorated by the king of the Belgians during the world war.

More likely, however, it's because of his unrelenting fight in congress against the erection of Boulder dam. From the first he has fought this project vigorously.

An able and forceful speaker, he draws the attention of colleagues on the floor of the house whether he is making his views on Boulder dam or making an appeal in behalf of the Indian.

Books to Nuggets

He taught history at Amherst for a while after the war, but soon returned to Arizona.

Mining was the occupation of the family—soon claimed him. In 1921, he went back to Arizona where he engaged in mining in the Aravaipa district.

Two years later he moved to Phoenix where he raised citrus fruits. It was in the same year that he entered politics, being elected to the state legislature.

In 1928 he entered the race for congress and defeated his republican opponent with an overwhelming majority.

Today's Anniversary

BIG GAIN BY ENGLISH

On Sept. 26, 1917, the English made a smashing drive on a six-mile front from half a mile to a mile deep in Flanders.

South of the Ypres-Menin road the English home troops completed the capture of the Twaer Hamlets, Spur, and gained their objective—the German concrete works on its further slope. In the center of some companies of Argyll and Sutherland Highlanders met with a stubborn resistance, so that the assault further north was carried into the afternoon with the Australians clearing the remainder of the Polygon Wood and the English, Scottish and Welsh battalions accomplishing their remote objective—Zonnebeke, a mile away.

On the extreme left the North Midland and London Territorials reached their objectives on both sides of the Willebeke-Gravenstede road and St. Julien-Gravenstede roads.

This advance reached half a mile through a maze of fortified farms and concrete redoubts.

How does it happen that newspapers always present the wrong ideas according to the views of other people who write letters to newspapers?

Seen And Heard In New York

BY WILLIAM GAINES

New York—Charles Yarus, pioneer pretzel man, informs me that the pretzel business has increased 500 per cent since prohibition!

While you are figuring that out, let me give you Mr. Yarus's theory.

He says that in the pre-Volstead era, practically every pretzel came over the bar. Now, they have become a home delicacy and hundreds of thousands of them are distributed through grocery and delicatessen stores.

The same stores now distribute malt-hops combinations. Could it be possible that, after all the pretzel renewals old acquaintances at the hearthside?

By the way, Philadelphia gave Mr. Yarus to this world entwined in pretzels. And he has two brothers in the business, too.

Among the disarming things about the present city administration are its smiles.

Acting Mayor McKee now is flashing one which lacks that slightly cynical twist that characterizes Jimmie Walker's.

One of the two really long run plays here has bounced the current theory that playgoers won't shop below Forty-second street.

"Grand Hotel" has been pulling 'em down to Forty-first since last November 13.

The newspaper room in the New York Public library affords access to nearly 300 papers from over the United States—more than you could accumulate at all of the out-of-town newspaper stands in the city.

Only the Library of Congress assembles more domestic news sheets. But New York's library gets more foreign papers than any other place you can find—172, I was told there. If you go to the newspaper room, you can find New Yorkers who used to live in this town and that, from Maine to Arizona, poring over the old home town sheet to see what has happened in a scene they haven't seen for years.

Amplified—And War

So over to Central Park zoo, and we wonder why it is that big rats can stalk about the cages of the larger members of the cat family, and the resident pussies will make no attempt to catch them. In fact, we've never seen a tiger in the zoo. Pay any attention at all to a rat.

Down to the aquarium, since this is visitors' day.

There was a scrap in there this week. Two seamen of the same ship stood before one of the glass tanks. Neither, it seems, had seen a catfish before, and one remarked that the fish bore a facial resemblance to the other. For a couple of minutes there was considerable disturbance but no arrests because there wasn't any damage.

"You know how sailors are when they get ashore," one of the attendants remarked to me.

Yes, and I can imagine how that catfish looked to both of them, knowing where sailors go before they would occur to them to drop in the aquarium.

COLD STORM IN GREAT BRITAIN TO CLEAR AIR

England and World at Large Will Be Better Off, Babson Believes

BY ROGER BABSON
Babson Park, Mass.—The financial thunderstorm that has just broken in Great Britain will, in the end, do much to clear the business atmosphere throughout the world. We shall feel its reverberations for a while, but it is surely both England and the world at large that will be better off because it happened. Anyone who knows British pride realizes that only a great national and international emergency could have forced her to suspend the gold standard. The pound sterling means more than just British money. It has for centuries been the proud standard of England throughout the world. Therefore the dramatic action of England in finally letting it "drift where it will" is striking proof to everybody that we have come to grips with fundamentals and must work out our own salvation. No panaceas or short-cuts will do. Moreover, human nature always fights best with its back to the wall. England's financial troubles are due, first, to stabilizing the pound at par in 1925 in order to uphold traditional British honor—whereas France, Italy, and other countries stabilized their currencies at a tremendous discount from par. France is now being praised for her strong financial position, but it should be remembered that she has accumulated three-fourths of her domestic debt by stabilizing the franc at one-fourth of its former value. This England refused to do and should be praised for her courage and good intentions. Moreover, in the world-wide readjustment England has faltered under the staggering burden of the Second England on the other hand, yielded to certain temptations which have led her astray. English bankers borrowed from us at 3 per cent and loaned their money to Germany at 7 per cent, thus taking a gambler's chance to recoup previous losses.

These loans are now frozen due to Germany's collapse. This English politicians gave labor a dose as the easiest way out, but this dose has wrecked British finance and killed individual initiative. Fourth, Great Britain has lacked the financial statesmanship, judgment, and energy, which characterized her leaders before the war. Much of this leadership, judgment, and energy was cast off by the war and will take one or two generations to replace it.

Financial reforms emerge. Out of this chaos will emerge some constructive reforms in national and international finance that have long been needed. In the first place our bankers are going to realize that pouring more money into Europe does no good so long as Europe spends it for armaments, wastes it on extravagant public improvements, or pays it out in idles. If our loans went for purely constructive business enterprise they would help, but the time has come to call a halt on pouring good money after bad. Until foreign nations guarantee that they will reduce armaments, practice domestic economy, and honestly try to balance their budgets, more loans should be refused. England gives evidence that she is sincere in this respect. MacDonald's program of rigid economy, reduction in the dole, and a balanced budget, is one of the most constructive factors in the present world situation.

France, on the other hand, is not playing the game. She wants us to cancel her debts, but she continues to increase her armaments at an alarming rate. Germany seems firmly determined not to pay any more reparations. It is high time that the United States gave more attention to her own domestic finances, reducing expenditures, and avoiding Europe's mistakes.

We can help Europe and ourselves best by setting an example of national economy, and by insisting as a condition of future loans, that Europe cease preparations for war.

Banking System Inadequate
It is also obvious that the world can not remain permanently on a credit gold basis. Other foreign nations may follow England in suspending gold payments. The United States and France, with three-fourths of the world's gold supply, may be left holding the bag. Hence, I look for a conference to be called to consider the establishment of an international currency system which will allocate currencies and other countries with an insufficient gold supply, to trade on an equal basis with gold-standard countries. Also the system for settlement of international balances is still antiquated compared with domestic banking systems of all the great nations.

Here in the United States we have $20,000,000,000 of gold, but our total volume of business transactions is around $750,000,000,000. Assuming a turn-over of twelve times a year, this would mean $60,000,000,000 of gold supporting $60,000,000,000 of credit instruments. In other words, our domestic credit is 112 times as great as our gold holdings. However, international trade settlements are still made chiefly in gold. We need to develop an agreement with England, France, and other countries, on a banking system which will supplement the use of gold as a means of settlement. Some progress has been made along this line in international bankers' acceptances, but the system is far from perfect, and fails to provide the credit structure necessary to avoid undue loss of gold by any one country. Such a system may be one ultimate constructive result of the present English debacle.

Effects on Countries
Ultimately the effects of gold suspension should be favorable to world business. However, the immediate effects will vary in different countries. Even though Great Britain's bonds and notes, payable in foreign currencies, are not affected by the suspension, nevertheless, these, and other foreign bonds, will suffer from the shock. Creditor nations such as the United States, France, Sweden, Holland, and Switzerland, will incur losses, whereas debtor nations will

FLUSH "DEAD ENDS" OF CITY WATER MAINS

Employees of the city water department, responding to complaints of several patrons, have started flushing "dead ends" of water mains in various places in Appleton. Approximately 50 "dead ends" will be flushed in 15 minutes each, according to Irvin Tornow, foreman. There is no circulation at the "dead ends," and after the water stands in the main for a time it develops a slight taste.

OFFER PULP, PAPER COURSES AT SCHOOL

Evening Classes to Cover All Units in Manufacture and Operation

Unit courses in pulp and paper and allied subjects will be offered in evening classes at Appleton vocational school, according to Carl Bertram, coordinator. The vocational school is prepared to offer to the industry, in addition to the courses in actual operation and manufacture of pulp and paper, several courses for men employed in maintenance and service jobs.

Registration for the courses will be received at the vocational school between 7 and 9 o'clock next Tuesday and Wednesday evenings, according to Mr. Bertram.

The unit courses will cover characteristics and sources of pulpwood, paper making fibers other than wood, preparation of pulp wood, manufacture of mechanical pulp, manufacture of sulphite pulp, making of sulphate pulp, preparation of rags and fibers, bleach manufacture and refining operations, beating and bleaching, fillers and filling and loading, size and sizing, coloring, the Fourdrinier machine, the Yankee paper machine, the Yankee paper machine, paper finishing, and testing.

BOARD TO DISCUSS SEWAGE DISPOSAL

Grand Chute Group to Consider Project at Viola-st Outlet

Recommendations of the state board of health on the disposal of sewage from Viola-st will be discussed by the town of Grand Chute at its October meeting.

After an inspection of the situation, about which there have been complaints by Appleton residents, state engineers advised by March 1 next year the town of Grand Chute install septic tanks and dry wells at all properties at present connected to the storm sewer on Viola-st, that a pump, sump and force main discharging into the city of Appleton sanitary sewer be installed if the approval of the Appleton council can be secured.

In their investigation the engineers found that the discharge of raw sewage from the eight houses on Viola-st, which runs right angle to E. Wisconsin-ave, the north boundary limit of Appleton, results in an unsanitary condition and odor nuisance in a dry run located in Appleton. Sewage from the Viola-st houses is discharged into the Viola-st storm sewer, which empties into a culvert at the intersection of Viola-st and E. Wisconsin-ave. From this culvert the sewage goes into a storm sewer which runs across E. Wisconsin-ave, and under the railroad tracks, and discharges into a dry ditch. This results in an abhorrent odor during warm weather.

ALMANAC PREDICTS CRIME
Scotland Yard police are investigating the selling of almanacs containing the prediction of the death of Mrs. A. L. Kemper, elderly Oxford widow who was found stabbed in her home. Their description of the alleged murderer is said to tally with that of a man who appeared at Bicester a few days after the crime and sold "Old Moore's Almanacs" on the streets. One of the predictions in this year's almanac reads: "Crime will show a marked increase, and several sensational murders will be reported, the most notable being the murder of a woman at Oxford." Two men, one from Reading and one from Leighton Buzzard, were questioned by the police, but were released.

BISHOP PERRY REELECTED

find their debt burdens lightened. Holders of sterling exchange in France, the United States, and South America, will lose about $1,300,000,000, assuming that the pound sterling falls approximately one-third, which is now estimated. England, on the other hand, will wipe off perhaps one-third of her domestic debt by the fall in the price of the pound. Also, commodity prices in England should show some rise and this will tend to stimulate business to some extent. Likewise England's exports will be helped.

England will be handicapped in buying goods from gold-standard countries, such as the United States, because of the lower value of the pound in relation to the dollar. Hence, unless the rise in England's domestic prices is sufficient to offset it, the tendency will be to retard American exports to Great Britain. Over-shadowing all other possible early effects, however, are the ultimate benefits to all nations through gradual restoration of confidence as the world realizes England's determination to follow a sane, upright, and straightforward policy of national economy. Just as England courageously, and at great sacrifice, led the world back onto a gold standard in 1925, so now, under changed conditions, England is taking a courageous lead by admitting her mistakes and standing four-square for national reform.

CULBERTSON ON CONTRACT

by Ely Culbertson
World's Champion Player and Greatest Card Analyst

FINESSEING.

This article will answer numerous inquiries that have been received concerning various finesse situations.

An finesse is an attempt to take a trick with a lower card, when a higher, not in sequence, with it is held, in the hope that the card of lower value will win the trick. To illustrate:

In situation (1), a small card led by South, West playing low and North playing the Queen is a finesse against the King.

In situation (2), a small card led by South, West playing low, and North playing the King is the finesse of the King against the Ace.

There are infinite numbers of combinations where finessees are possible, but years of experience have proven that any attempt beyond what is termed the double finesse (excepting in instances where a suit has been bid to the right of an unusual holding in this particular suit) is not a winning play. The single finesse is given in example (1). The double finesse is given below:

In addition to single and double finessees, there is one called the combination finesse.

(5) A 5 2
K 6 4
S E
Q J 10 7 3

(6) A 5 2
N
K 7 4
Q 8 6

In situation (5) the Queen should be led from the South hand, and should West play low, North should also play low. The Knave should be played next and again North plays low unless West plays the King.

In situation (6) should the Queen be played from the South hand and West cover with the King, it would force the Ace from North's hand and the Knave and ten would be winning cards in the hands of the adversaries. However, if King is held by East, two tricks can be won in the suit if a small card is led from North's hand. (It is generally a wise policy to play the Ace first in case either adversary held the singleton King.) Thus it will be readily seen that situation (6) played in the latter manner has a 50 per cent advantage, and the play cannot lose if West holds the King.

The following descriptions indicate when a finesse should be taken and when it should not be taken.

Holding A K J, with or without other cards of the suit in the hand, and a total of eight (or less) cards of the suit in the combined hands, the finesse of the Knave should be taken, after playing the Ace or King to insure against the singleton Queen winning. Holding nine or more cards in the suit, one hand containing the A K J the percentage is against taking the finesse, unless information has been gained from the bidding which would make it a winning play.

TODAY'S POINTER
Pre-emptive (Shut-Out) Raises Are Banned

The Pre-emptive (shut-out) Raise or Takeout bids have no logical place in Contract. Raises or Takeout bids are strictly strength-showing bids and attempt a shut-out Raise, which is a deliberate overbid, would hopelessly confuse partner.

To illustrate:

The Opening Hand
1 Spade

The Responding Hand
4 Spades

The triple Raise, far from being a shut-out overbid, shows a rather powerful hand worth about 6 supporting tricks, and if the Opening Hand holds somewhat better than the minimum, even a Slam is not far away.

QUESTIONS ANSWERED
Mr. Culbertson will be glad to answer questions on bidding and play of hands sent in by readers. Address him in care of this newspaper, enclosing a TWO-CENT STAMPED, SELF-ADDRESSED ENVELOPE.

Hollywood Is Stirred By Book On Life Of Garbo

BY JESSIE HENDERSON
(Copyright, 1931, by Cons Press)
Hollywood—(CPA)—Hollywood is all worked up like a batch of home brew over a new book entitled "The Private Life of Greta Garbo." Miss Garbo's life is so strictly private that until it was written by Rilla Dalberg, who knows Greta a bit and Greta's companions a lot, few people dreamed of the thoughts that went on behind the alluring Garbo features.

Miss Garbo herself is reported to be considerably burned up over the matter and it is further said that the M-G-M studios threaten to bring suit against the publishers. Be that as it may, the fact remained that Miss Garbo has never autographed more than three or four pictures, she won't sign a statement saying what cosmetic gave her what complexion, she won't attend premieres, and she goes to perhaps two parties in 12 months. In short she hates crowds and loves solitude. She wants to be in the public eye only upon the screen and when she steps into her car to go home to Santa Monica, from the studio, that's the end of Garbo until she shows up for work next morning.

Possibly the consternation caused by the new book rests in the fact that it pictures Miss Garbo as a human being, and a delightful one. It seems Miss Garbo likes to walk alone on the beach at night. She likes to skin out to the ice box and the two servants are abed and help herself to cold meat, cheese, and Swedish hardback. When the servants both have a day off, the screen siren mashes potatoes, fries a steak, and eats it alone in the kitchen. This ought to sound grand to a lot of people who do likewise, only Miss Garbo leaves the kitchen in perfect order when she is through.

And then on hot days it appears that she fully dressed she walks back and forth through the spray of the garden hose an act of common sense and courage for which many will envy her, though not everyone, of course, has enough changes of clothes to indulge this glorious whim. Also, she likes to ride horseback in the rain.

So there you are. She's human, just as she herself has always contended.

POLICE WAR ON SMUGGLERS
German police have started a determined effort to suppress smuggling from Belgium which has grown to serious proportions this year. Recently they followed a truck carrying smuggled coffee from the border into Aix-Le-Chapelle. In a wide ride through city streets the police fired on the truck, and in the battle which followed two bystanders were wounded, one of them fatally. Pedestrians thought that a Nazi-Communist battle was being fought and fled for their lives. Although wounded in the leg, one of the smugglers attempted to escape, but was arrested later in a public-house, where he had taken refuge. Three tons of coffee were found in the truck.

SUSPENSION OF GOLD REVEALS WORLD EFFECTS

Dozen Capitals Prepare to Protect Their Gold Reserves

BY CHARLES F. SPEARE

Copyright, 1931, by Cons. Press
Wall Street, New York—The effect of the gold suspension by England, which at first showed itself in moderate form outside of the markets primarily influenced by it, was Friday visible in all parts of the world and in a pronounced degree. With sterling here quoted at a discount of 30 per cent from the normal parity and not very far above the low quotation 10 years ago, the confusion in business circles increased and from a dozen world capitals came announcements of action to protect their gold reserves and to adjust their credit operations to the new conditions.

It was apparent that no support was being given sterling, for it broke more violently than at any time since Monday, touching 3.40 against the previous low of 3.71. International bankers here have voiced the opinion that it would be useless for Great Britain to suspend gold payments for six months and then try to restore sterling to the old basis. It is also their belief that the world must seek its own level and in the same way as with French and Belgian exchange, eventually reach a point of resistance where stabilization might be effected at a proper rate.

They have not felt that this revelation figure should be as high as $4 nor possibly as low as the 1931 quotation of $2.48.

Descent Is Rapid
Until Friday it was believed that the sterling market would find a point of equilibrium somewhere between $3.50 and $3.25. The swiftness of its descent after the opening Friday morning modified this view. A great deal of sterling was covered by American investors around the $4 level, which meant substantial and wholly unexpected profits for those in the business of bringing in foreign products.

The action of Sweden in raising her official rediscount rate to 6 per cent on Thursday was followed Friday by Denmark in advancing the Danish discount figure from 4 1/2 per cent to 6 per cent. Denmark, owing to her intimate trade relations with Great Britain, was one of the first European countries to adopt the policy of suspending the export of gold. Cables from London Friday were to the effect that the government of South Africa will probably be compelled to abandon the gold standard. There is considerable interest in the action that the commonwealth of Australia will take in the present situation. The support which London gave to the maturing Australian loans last spring prevented the possibility of default.

In subsequent emergencies of the same sort, Australia will now be compelled to fall back on her own resources and financial ingenuity.

The president of the republic of Colombia issued a decree Friday temporarily suspending free trading in gold and prohibiting gold exports except by the bank of the republic. The president of Chile signed a bill reducing the minimum gold reserve of the national bank from 50 per cent to 35 per cent. These emergency measures to ease the currency shortage are to extend over a period of two years. Throughout central Europe, and especially in those countries that have political relationships with France, there was a substitution of francs for sterling in foreign trade operations.

The situation at the moment in Great Britain is clearer than in Germany, for the English markets are open and appear to be functioning on a natural basis. On the other hand, the Berlin bourse was promptly closed on Monday, when news came of a suspension of gold payments by Great Britain, and have not reopened. Outside quotations have to some extent followed the tenor of other European markets, as well as that in New York.

There is, however, a veil drawn over the German position which has led to all sorts of rumors concerning the true state of affairs in the reich. Marks are being quoted at a discount.

Much has been made here of the effect on security markets of the withdrawal of gold for foreign account. It has been stated by the federal reserve authorities that this country could lose $1,000,000,000 of its $5,000,000,000 gold without any disturbance to the currency situation. Wall Street has made a mountain out of a mole hill in trying to find a reason in the gold movements for the abrupt decline in stocks, following the great buoyancy of Wednesday's market. The last thing that this country has to fear in the present emergency is a loss of gold and a moderate rise in the level of interest rates.

GALE COLLEGE ALUMNI BACK FOR HOMECOMING

Galesville—(AP)—Alumni of Gale college, secondary Lutheran school here, returned to their alma mater for a two-day homecoming celebration today.

Although no football game is on the homecoming program, the college baseball team will play a tonnage of alumni members. A banquet will be held tonight and divine services will be conducted in the morning and afternoon tomorrow.

The Rev. T. H. Megordon, president of the college, will discuss "The Gale College Advancement club," an organization being built up to aid the school, at the banquet.

STAR DUST

Circus plots are not unusual. In fact, episodically, they enjoy a large run of favor. But there is a "behind-the-scenes" thrill about the very environment of swindlers, stakes and elephants that is a very pleasant left-over of childhood, and persists long after we leave behind the desire to get up at five o'clock to watch the circus trains unload. Although we seldom admit it, most of us hanker after the magic of the circus, and are willing to believe in the impossible long after it has been proven impossible.

STAR DUST by D. L. Murray, published by Little Brown and available in Appleton at the Century Book Shop, is far better than most ring tales. It is a first-class story of the life of a daring horse-woman and the numerous fantastic and sinister personages who cross her path. Mr. Murray says "What is the fascination of the circus for me? I wish I could tell you. I know that it is principally horses, and horse-loving and circus training, however, the spell of the circus lies in its wonderful concentration of exotic and romantic figures from all parts of the world. The ring seems to me to be a magic, closed universe of its own in which the laws of human living are suspended and where everything is possible—except boredom."

By far the most outstanding feature of Star Dust is the manner in which the author takes his caste from England to France and from there to America. Mr. Murray succeeds admirably in differentiating between circus life in one country and that of another. In England, the business belongs in the category of music halls, and vaudeville; in America it is an artistic profession, requiring long and arduous training and received enthusiastically, by virtue of its skillful and delicate performances; in America, the circus is a racket. And he who dares the most makes the most money. To the person who falls, there comes complete oblivion. Sensation, the food for America en masse, is the driving urge.

We must warn you that this novel is not lightly written. Although Star Dust must be put in a class with novels of a more frothy vein because of its plot, it really belongs to good literature. One cannot hurry in the reading of it. Nor is it easily forgotten, once read. There is intense beauty in the story.

Don't Judge Child Tales To Hastily

BY ANGELO PATRI

Juliette's mother arrived in the principal's office breathless and angry. "I'd like to know why a teacher should feel she had the right to shake and slap a defenseless little girl just because she answered a question better than the teacher's pet did. I'd just like to know how she explains such a thing. She ought to be ashamed of herself. She ought to wait a minute. There is something wrong here, I'm—"

"There's a whole lot wrong when a teacher can do such things to a little girl just because she isn't a—"

"Mrs. Grey, wait a moment. Let me tell you something, please. Juliette's teacher has been absent for three days and the class has been under the supervision of the head of the department and myself. If Juliette had been mistreated in any way I would know it because I have seen her every half hour for these last three school days. I assure you that nobody shook her, nobody slapped her."

"You don't know. Juliette came home today all excited and told me how her teacher shook and slapped her."

"We will bring Juliette here. She told you her teacher did this?"

"Yes. Her teacher. She always liked her teacher until this happened."

Juliette entered the office looking a bit startled. When she saw her mother she grew pale and tried to back out of the room.

"Come in Juliette. Your mother tells me something went wrong in your classroom today. What happened?"

Juliette moistened her lips but said nothing. "Speak up. Tell us what happened. Tell what you told me when you came home crying day after day. The teacher slapped you and shook you. For nothing, didn't she?" prompted her mother.

Juliette looked hesitatingly at the principal. "Juliette, your teacher has been away three days. I have been in your room a great deal. I have seen no sign of trouble. Nothing happened to you. Why do you want to say that you were ill-treated when plainly it is not so?"

Juliette choked. Then she murmured, "I don't know."

"That's the truth. Juliette was a very quiet little girl. She was colorless and her school life was colorless to correspond. She missed her teacher and felt lonelier than ever. The busy people in charge of the class never saw the still little girl in the middle of the class. To make herself come alive and appear to be a part in things she exercised what imagination she had and the fable was the result."

Many times we have to deal with these tales. They come out in every grade from primary through high school, varying with the personality of the child. Hysterical stories of attack, inflated tales of success, or honors, of oppression, of favoritism, exaggerated stories of ordinary happenings, pure inventions to have fables are created and spread about. Sometimes, when people are not careful and understanding, these tales make a lot of trouble.

Whenever a child carries home a strange tale listen carefully and then investigate it, withholding your decision until the full reports are in hand. Fables are a form of self justification for many children.

Mr. Patri will give personal attention to inquiries from parents and school teachers on the care and development of children. Write him in care of this paper, enclosing stamped, addressed envelope for reply.

COURTS HAMPERING DRIVE ON GAMBLERS, MAYOR CERMAK SAYS

Chicago—(P)—Mayor Anton J. Cermak today accused the courts of hampering his efforts to clean out the gambling dens of Chicago.

The dismissal of cases against 125 men on technical grounds in two days' time prompted the accusation, which he followed up quickly with a statement that he would keep tight on raiding gambling establishments, "warrant or no warrant."

The 125 defendants were discharged yesterday and the day previous by Judge Thomas A. Green on the ground the police entered the gambling houses without warrants, or because the warrants failed to name the owners or describe the "John does" listed as keepers. "North Side Frankie" Pope and 89 of his patrons of the "Acquarium Social club" and "Vanity Fair" were among those who won dismissals.

"I'm so mad over the way the courts have been hampering our work that I don't know what to do," the mayor said at a conference with Chief Justice John J. Sonsteyn at which he complained not only of the dismissals, but the action of another court in returning to E. J. Williams, a Negro, gambling equipment seized in a raid.

"The police killed two bandits the other night," the mayor said. "I suppose they should have gotten a court order to do that."

Simple to Make

When you study this smart frock, you'll see it's really very simple to fashion. It's stunning too. Diagonal seaming emphasizes the smooth fitting neckline. The bodice cuts in one unit it joins the skirt.

It's so thoroughly wearable in dull black supple woolen, the smartest idea for town wear.

Creme satin flat crepe, canton-faille crepe and wool-flocked rayon voile are exceedingly lovely ideas for its development.

Style No. 3068 comes in sizes 16, 18 years, 20, 22, 24 and 26 inches bust measure. Size 20 requires 3 yards of 36-inch material with 14 yards of 18-inch lace and 3 yard of 18-inch contrasting.

Don't envy the woman who dresses well and keeps her children well-dressed. Just send for your copy of our Fall and Winter Fashion Magazine.

It shows the best styles of the coming season. And you may obtain our Pattern at cost price of any style shown. The pattern is most economical in material requirements. It enables you to wear the new frocks at little expense—two frocks for the price of one.

You will save $10 by spending 10 cents for this book. So it would pay you to send for your copy now. Address Fashion Department.

Be sure to fill in the size of the pattern. Send stamps or coin (coin preferred).

and to find the latter dull and unappreciable?

Also aren't you getting rather a taste for the sort of entertainment which the old flame is able to afford? It's perfectly natural. He sends his car for you, he lunches with you, never forgetting to bring flowers, to make pretty speeches, to compliment you on the new hat. He can do all these things well, because you're not part of his daily life—you're a novelty and a pleasant one.

Then the husband comes home and complains about the meals you serve hasn't the faintest interest in your new hat, doesn't dream of making pretty speeches, and altogether makes you feel rather let-down and unappreciated. He may love you much more than anything in the world—he may be capable of a greater devotion than any old flame that ever lived but he hasn't the money nor the opportunity nor the incentive to be the gay Romeo the O. F. appears.

That's why your constant dates with your old beau are dangerous to your own peace of mind and happiness, and it's probably why the group of advisors have made more of a hullabaloo about the situation than ever before. Don't be obstinate. Realize that they're right in this one thing, although they're usually wrong. Don't set yourself in opposition to them, out of spite for former humiliations.

This matter concerns your own happiness and you must be wary. Have all the old friends you want to, but don't use them to set up to your husband as glowing examples of what men ought to be. That sort of thing can only lead to permanent domestic trouble.

See Old Girl Chum
M. W. O. Of course, go to see our old friend. Get the envious thoughts out of our mind. In your joy at seeing your chum again, half your mean resentment at her success will slip away—see if it doesn't.

You're half worried now because you fear that she may be superior. The chances are she won't. Usually in situations of this sort, it's the less successful girl who feels most sensitive and self-conscious. You're probably doing more worrying than is necessary. Don't hesitate any longer.

EXPERT SAYS ALL STOCKS ARE NOT PURE SPECULATION

Points Out That All Bonds Cannot Be Considered Good Investment, Either

BY GEORGE T. HUGHES

(Copyright, 1931, by Cons. Press)

New York — Because as a rule interest payments on bonds are better secured than dividends on stocks and because bonds for many years have been rated more conservative investments than stocks it is not to be inferred that all bonds are investments and all stocks are speculations. In each individual case the security depends first on the property back of the bond or the stock and second on the earning power represented.

Generally the market fluctuations in bonds are more moderate than those in stocks, but that rule also is subject to many exceptions. There are plenty of bonds which are purely speculative and which are subject to market swings fully as wide as any stock. Do not buy a security simply because it is a bond in name or in fact and do not reject a stock simply because it represents an equity in the earnings and not a fixed charge.

Each case must be considered on its merits always bearing in mind the fundamental distinction between bonds and stocks, namely that the interest on the bonds must be paid whereas the dividend on the stock is optional with the board of directors. There are stocks and many of them which have paid dividends so long that there is no reasonable doubt about their continuing to pay and these deservedly claim a high investment rating. There are stocks which have no bonds ahead of them and these investments just as safe as bonds.

All of this does not change the fact that any investment list which contains only stocks is unbalanced. The proper proportion to be maintained between the two depends on the requirements of the individual investor, but it is an unsound practice to leave out bonds entirely.

The theory that over the longer period common stocks are more desirable investments than bonds, a theory which gained wide acceptance during the inflation in securities two years ago, will be discussed later in this series. Suffice it to say that this proposition has fewer adherents today than it did then.

TAKE CARE OF YOUR FEET TO KEEP BEAUTY

BY ALICIA HART

If you want to have a lovely face, don't neglect your feet! A great percentage of the frown lines between your eyes and the drooping lines around your mouth are caused, odd as it may appear, by tired, aching feet.

When the first signs of foot strain appear, whether these signs are pain, stiffness, or just a tired feeling across the arch, given your feet some much-needed attention. Release them by spending a little time each day on a bed or couch with your feet propped up on pillows. If your days are so completely filled with other things that you don't have time to do that, then at least take the time to bathe them properly.

Soak your feet in hot water for two minutes, then in very cold water for thirty seconds, then in hot water again, then in cold. Always end with the cold water. Try this two or three times a day and notice how the pain and aching will be relieved in a week or two. Massage is excellent for your circulation and will relieve pain and strengthen the muscles of your feet. Apply a good foot cream and then massage every inch until the aches disappear.

If you can go to a pedicure once a month, be sure and do so. It will improve your face and complexion as much as your visit to the beauty parlor. But if you can not afford this weekly visit, or if you haven't time, at least soak the feet in hot and cold water (alternating) and massage them each night.

Perfect cleanliness is an essential to beautiful, comfortable feet. Use plenty of soap and water. Scrub them energetically with a little brush or a hard-bristle wash cloth. Be sure and rinse off all the soap and dry the feet thoroughly, particularly between the toes. If the skin feels dry after your vigorous rubbing, apply a little foot cream or cold cream and massage it in thoroughly. Dust between your toes with boracic acid powder before you put on clean stockings. It will help to keep them from perspiring and swelling.

Never wear a pair of stockings the second time without washing them. Soiled stockings—and they are soiled if you have worn them once, even if they don't look dirty—are very unhealthy and certainly unsanitary. Incidentally, stockings wear three times as long if you wash them just as soon as you take them off.

MY NEIGHBOR SAYS —

Heat the knife blade before cutting a loaf of fresh bread. This prevents the usual breaking and crumbling of the slices.

Apply spirits of camphor on a soft cloth on varnished furniture and rub briskly.

Print your child's name inside his rubbers when he goes to school. This will make it possible for his teacher to identify them, which would otherwise be impossible to do where there are so many rubbers of about the same size.

Sometimes when the gravy from roasts is not quite as dark as you want it to be, try adding a little cold coffee. Just enough to color it.

TOO MUCH PROXIMITY FOR FRIENDSHIP—OLD BEAU MAY BE DANGEROUS INFLUENCE IN THE HOME

CATTY T.: You and your chum will have a much more peaceful time altogether if you don't see quite so much of each other. You apparently have no other friends—either of you—and so you spend most of your time together. Very naturally this constant close association has begun to get on your nerves.

You've become over-critical of Betty because you've had no relief. Every one of her faults is magnified. Flaws in her which would only irritate you momentarily if you two were part of a big crowd, drive you to senseless fury now, since you're unable to get away from them for a single moment.

And similarly she feels the weight of your criticism intolerable. If you two were farther removed from each other the fact that you are the stronger character of the two, wouldn't bother either of you. You're just having too much of each other's unadulterated society, and it's high time you found more associations if you want to keep your present friendship going.

So try not to make Betty your only contact in life. Know other people and make some sort of friendships with them. You two girls will end by actively disliking each other which would be a pity since you really have an excellent basis of friendship and only a better perspective to appreciate each other.

NORA: Of course it's irritating to have people about you who treat you as if you were a child, talk down to you and presume to criticize your actions. One can heartily sympathize with you in your present position, but just between you and me, isn't there some glimmer of justice in the latest criticism?

Aren't you running around a good deal with the old, old flame, while your husband is away? There isn't the slightest harm in friendship with an old flame, so long as he doesn't interfere with your marital happiness. But honestly aren't you beginning to compare him with friend husband

MENASHA GRID SQUAD WHIPS BERLIN, 7 TO 6

Victors Come from Behind to Score Touchdown in Third Quarter

Menasha—The Menasha high school grid squad, outplayed in the first half by a scrappy Berlin eleven, came from behind in the third quarter to score a 7 to 6 victory in a game at Butte des Morts field here Friday evening.

A series of line smashes by Stachowicz, hard hitting Menasha fullback, gave the Caldermen their only touchdown. Novakowski took the ball over the line for extra point after Berlin had been penalized half the distance to the goal line on two preceding plays.

In spite of inclement weather and wet bleachers, a large crowd was on deck to watch the Caldermen perform in their second non-conference game in this season. A part of the Menasha high school band was on deck to entertain between halves.

The field was muddy, and although both teams were penalized frequently, there were but few fumbles. The outcome of the battle was in doubt until the final gun, and neither Calder nor Hein used more than a few substitutes.

The Berlin squad held the advantage during the entire first quarter, playing in Menasha territory during most of the period. Shortly after the kick off Chase, Berlin quarterback, intercepted a pass on the Menasha 40 yard line, and on an exchange of punts, with the wind behind Berlin, Menasha lost several yards. With Turner, Gonyo, and Keller working on off tackle plays, the visitors began a drive toward the goal line that was stopped only when a series of passes on the Menasha 10-yard line failed to connect. Ankham kicked out of danger for Menasha as the quarter ended, scoreless.

A 20-yard pass, Turner to Keller gave Berlin the ball on Menasha's 15 yard line shortly after the opening of the second of the second period, and another, toss, Turner to Keller, connected for seven yards. Bella, Berlin fullback, smashed through the line to make it first down on the three yard line and the Caldermen began working with their backs to the wall. Turner took the ball for Berlin and was stopped with a one yard gain; he took it again and was smeared in and tracks; took it a third time and plunged over the line for a touchdown. Turner took the ball for the fourth consecutive time in a try for extra point but failed to cross the marker.

Show Driving Power As the half drew to a close, the Caldermen began to exhibit the driving power that meted out easy wins last week. As the period ended co-captain Massey was flipping passes on every play, the first to Novakowski, netting 15 yards and placing the ball on Berlin's 27 yard line, and three in succession failing to connect. Calder's line began clicking in the third period and a blocked punt gave Menasha the ball on the Berlin nine yard line. The series in line plays failed to gain, however, Berlin kicked out of danger. Opening another attack on the Berlin 37-yard line, a pass, Novakowski to Ankham was ruled complete because of interference. Stachowicz, the bull dog of the Menasha backfield, picked up eight yards, and Berlin was penalized 25 yards for slugging. With the ball on the Berlin five yard line, the Caldermen took a five yard penalty, but gave the ball to Stachowicz again on the next play. On a smash through the center of the line, Stachowicz picked up nine yards, and on the next play crossed the goal line for a touchdown.

On the try for extra point, with Stachowicz again hitting the line, Berlin was penalized half the distance to the goal line for unnecessary roughness. Again Stachowicz plunged, failed to gain, and Berlin was penalized half the remaining distance for off side. On the third attempt Novakowski went off tackle for the extra point.

In Scoring Position Within a few minutes Menasha was in scoring position again and Stachowicz, on a plunge off tackle, carried the ball across the tape but the play was called back because Menasha was offside. Berlin held and kicked to Asmus who returned the ball 26 yards to the Berlin 27 yard line as the quarter ended.

Two long runs by Novakowski and a series of line smashes by Stachowicz placed the Caldermen in scoring position early in the second quarter. Wideman plunged over the tape, but again the play was called back for an offside penalty on Menasha. After a Berlin punt to the 47 yard line, Novakowski, racing 27 yards around the right end, again brought the ball into scoring position but the Berlin defense stiffened and the game ended with the ball in Menasha's possession on the Berlin 14 yard line.

$10,000 DAMAGE ACTION ADJOURNED

Case to Be Resumed Next Tuesday Morning in Court at Oshkosh

Menasha—The circuit court action in which Mary Pawlowski, Menasha, seeks $10,000 damages from Anton Eskofski, Menasha, has been adjourned in the court of Judge Beglinger until next Tuesday morning. The jury trial started Tuesday morning when a plea on abatement was heard.

The plaintiff was an occupant of a car driven by Eskofski which tipped over when a tire blew out on highway 41 south of Fond du Lac. She seeks damages for alleged permanent injury to her right arm, contending that the defendant was negligent in filling a tire, said to have been in poor condition, with too much air.

John Pawlowski, husband of the plaintiff, who also was an occupant of the car, testified Friday morning that Eskofski was warned that the tire carried too much air, but that he said he would "take a chance."

The court Friday also entered a decision on objection to introduction of statements of physicians who examined Mrs. Pawlowski. The statements were offered by defense counsel and objection was filed by plaintiff's counsel. The ruling was that the papers should be admitted.

William A. Zabel, Milwaukee, and Charles Vette, Neenah, appeared for the plaintiff; and P. F. Dornbrook, and A. J. Sanders, Milwaukee, for the defendants.

Capitalists' Errors Must Be Corrected—Gov. Murray

St. Louis—(AP)—Leaving behind a prediction "the flames that now are consuming the huts and hovels of the poor owing to the economic errors of capitalists and industrialists will destroy the palaces of the rich unless these conditions are corrected," Gov. W. H. Murray of Oklahoma, was on his way back home today from his unemployment conference.

The conference, attended by representatives from 19 middle western states, closed late yesterday after listening to three congressmen urge that money for the relief of unemployment be obtained through heavy increases in the income taxes upon individuals with large incomes.

A resolution approving the purposes and policies of the recent Memphis conference on unemployment, was adopted with these additional recommendations:

That the secretary of labor gather statistics showing the number of native-born and unassimilated foreigners employed in the various industries in the country, with a view of enabling congress to further restrict the influx of people from other nations.

That approximately $12,000,000 of loans made to cotton growers and other farmers in the area embracing Oklahoma, part of Missouri, north Arkansas, western Texas and parts of Illinois and Indiana, be extended for another year because of the inability of the farmers to repay them.

That congress extend the operations of the Federal Farm Loan act so as to encourage the borrowing of money with which to purchase lands and homes.

Congressmen J. H. Fulbright of Missouri, and Harry C. Canfield of Indiana, urged rushing of federal construction work, including building of postoffices and improvement of waterways, through money obtained through increased income taxes upon large incomes.

Congressman Joseph B. Shannon of Kansas City, also urged income taxes for persons in the high brackets.

Who's News Today

BY LEMUEL F. PARTON Copyright, 1931, by Cons. Press New York—(CFA)—Dr. Clarence True Wilson, trigger man for the dyes who volleyed back at the American Legion before the ink was dry on its referendum.

There was once an undertaker in Brim, Oklahoma, who had been a reporter on Dana's New York Sun. One day he gathered in David St. George, aged alcoholic. In recurrent sinking spells, prefacing his end, Mr. St. George repeatedly affirmed that he was John Wilkes Booth, and told how he had escaped.

The undertaker took two things. He loaded Mr. St. George with sufficient embalming fluid to make a durable leather integument for his clay-still extant.

Then he did some old fashioned Sun leg work in rounding up the story, and publicizing it. In due time, Finis L. Bates, of Memphis, Tenn., acquired the mummy, with the idea of realizing on the $100,000 reward once offered for the capture of John Wilkes Booth.

Mr. Bates died and the legacy to his widow included the Oklahoma derelict. It appeared to be a permanent investment.

Dr. Wilson was a friend of Mrs. Bates. He acted as agent for the sale of the mummy to "Idaho" Billy Evans. Down at Ventura, Cal. and other coast towns, Mr. Evans made a profitable show out of the mummy.

Mr. St. George—caring him around carnivals and fairs. In return for his work in this transaction, Dr. Wilson acquired various documents and records in support of the theory that St. George was Booth.

He became an earnest believer. He gathered more material, ran down threads of evidence to their source, wrote a book and catalogued the evidence in a history of the mummy in this city drama. The book found no publisher. William C. Shepherd, in Harper's magazine, Harry Hansen in the Chicago Daily News and others exploded bombs under the theory, but Dr. Wilson persisted. In 1925, Dr. Wilson showed this writer his evidence. It looked convincing. Law suits have been won on less evidence.

At that time, it looked as if the itinerant west coast mummy was to provide a career for Dr. Wilson. But he turned aside to answer the bugle call of the dyes and is now their ace batter. Born in Delaware, Dr. Wilson was educated at the University of Southern California. He served in many pastorates, as a Methodist minister, and became successively, president of the Oregon antislavery league and general secretary of the Methodist Board of Temperance, prohibition and morals.

Surprisingly, the old financial "sixteen-to-one" heresy has been picked up by the ultra-conservative British industrialist and economist, Sir Hugo Cunliffe-Owen. Addressing a luncheon of the British-American Tobacco Co., of which he is chairman, he urged increases in the price of silver as immediately necessary. "The shade of William Jennings Bryan hovers over the world now," he says.

Sir Hugo, genial and colorful magnate, one of the richest men of Great Britain, has been a frequent visitor to New York, and it was here that he met the old Cunliffe-Owen, but never firmly interlocked in exclusive British society.

A cut back to a drab little Pennsylvania steel town shows 17-year-old Helen Elizabeth Oliver, known to her friends as Maizie, boarding the 315 local to go to New York to make her fortune. She married happily-lucky Monte Brice, richly apparelled show writer, and in-and-out on Broadway. In 1913, she obtained a divorce, and married Sir Hugo, whom she had met on one of his New York trips. Brice, charged from the war, charged that the divorce had been obtained secretly in his absence and sued Sir Hugo for $500,000 for alienation of his wife's affections. There was a flare of sensational publicity, not at all to the liking of the prominent. He said nothing, but presently the suit went out of the news and Lady Cunliffe-Owen, who had been an entertainer in an Asbury park cafe when Sir Hugo met her, finally gained the last citadel of the London salons.

Sir Hugo won the derby in 1928 with his Felstead, an unknown out-empire free trade fight and has been a bitter and unrelenting foe of the labor government.

The Taggart family came to Weyauwega in 1857. George and Robert Taggart formed a partnership with Hardy in 1882 and converted the business into a general store. Three years ago at the death of his brother, George Taggart closed the store and last spring sold it to Chris Nelson of Albert, Kobiske.

The building was an old fashioned white frame, one with narrow slatted doors opening directly on the street. The windows, long and narrow, were made of many small panes of glass.

Federal Dry Agents Raid Barroom At Adam's Park

Special to Post-Crescent
Manawa—Federal prohibition officers raided the barroom at Adam's Park, Symco, four miles north of Manawa, and arrested Marvin Gehrke, formerly of Clintonville, proprietor of the place and Alfred "Curly" Bole, his bartender. The agents were Robert F. Merkel, Clarence R. Olson and J. Baseman. Gehrke and Bole appeared before C. B. Dillett, U. S. commissioner at Shawano, waived hearing, and were bound over to the federal court to be held in Milwaukee later in the fall. Both are at liberty under bonds of $500 each. Bole also has a similar charge hanging over him when he was arrested at Broadway pavilion near Clintonville several weeks ago, at the time the place operated by Gehrke's brother was raided.

The dry officers found beer at the Symco drink parlor that contained about three per cent alcohol, but no liquor was discovered. Two cases of beer were emptied. No other places in central Waupaca were searched.

Royalton residents and business men are protesting the closing of the Green Bay and Western railroad station at that village. An application for a hearing to be held before the Public Service Commission of Wisconsin was signed by Carroll Ritchie, village president, and Roy Hennick, supervisor.

State Senator Herman J. Severance, Iowa attorney, is handling the case and the hearing is expected to be held next week, although the date and place have not been definitely fixed.

Citizens of Royalton made application under date of Sept. 2, for an order from the commission requiring the railroad to reopen its Royalton station. The law requires the commission to conduct a formal investigation and hearing in such cases and the commission is accordingly serving notice on the carrier to the effect that the time and date will be fixed within the next ten days.

The Royalton station was closed some two months ago because of lack of patronage. While the passenger service is of secondary importance to the village of Royalton, the closing of the station proved to be a source of great inconvenience to shippers in that locality. The citizens of the community accordingly have made application for restoration of the station for service and the matter now awaits the action of the Public Service Commission.

The station at Dodge on the western end of the Green Bay and Western line, ordered closed by railroad officials at the same time Royalton was shut down, has remained open upon protest of citizens at that place, pending a hearing before the Public Service commission.

Representatives of the Central Wisconsin high school athletic association met in Manawa, all of the schools, Rosholt, Birmamwood, Wittenberg, Marion and Tigerton in the northern division, Iola, Amherst, Weyauwega, Waupaca and Manawa in the southern group, sending delegates.

Officers elected include W. W. Roels, Iola, president; L. K. Forrest, Marion, vice president and treasurer; G. E. Watson, Waupaca, secretary.

Schedules for various athletic events were drawn up. It was decided to hold the conference tennis tournament again, probably at Manawa. Track will be sponsored in the form of a conference meet. All dual tennis matches on back meets will not count toward the conference championship.

Manawa's basketball schedule follows: Dec. 4—Open; Dec. 11—Iola there; Dec. 18—Weyauwega here; Jan. 8—Waupaca there; Jan. 15—Amherst here; Jan. 22—Open; Jan. 29—Iola here; Feb. 5—Weyauwega there; Feb. 12—Waupaca here and Feb. 19—Amherst there.

The conference championship game between the winners of the northern and southern divisions will be played Friday evening, Feb. 26. Following an attempted flying switch, a box car containing 30 tons of coal gained too rapid a pace and slipped off the end of a spur of track running from the Green Bay and Western depot in Manawa to the business section of the village, Wednesday, after an effort had been made to spot it near the Little Wolf River lumber Co. sheds. William Collier was conductor of the train crew at the time. Cy Hollister, engineer, and Mowdy Prosser, brakeman and "chauffeur" of the box car. Stockbridge—John Propson, South Stockbridge farmer, lost a valuable cow Thursday morning. Death was caused by bloat. Mr. Propson had turned his herd into an alfalfa field only a short time when he noticed the cow bloat. A Chilton veterinarian was called immediately and succeeded in saving all but one. Farmers have been advised to feed ground feed to their cows before turning them into alfalfa fields. It is especially dangerous this fall since the rains.

BEER ISSUE IS UP TO CONGRESS, NOT TO HOOVER

Legislative Branch Must Act to Dispose of Prohibition Law Problem

BY DAVID LAWRENCE
Copyright, 1931 by Post Pub. Co.
Washington—(CFA)—Throughout the country and particularly in the larger cities there seems to be an impression that 3 per cent beer is right around the corner—and that it requires only a nod of approval from President Hoover to eliminate the one-half of one per cent alcoholic content of the Volstead law.

But while the beer controversy is every day gaining more and more attention so that an official inquiry into the economic effects of a new beer law has been instituted, the action must come from congress and the leaders of congress, the legislative branch of the government.

Mr. Hoover is committed to the dry side of the argument thus far and is understood not to be impressed with the economic contentions. Congress may feel differently, indeed the action of the American Legion following its does somewhat similar resolutions showing a trend against the eighteenth amendment by the American bar association, the American Medical association, and the American Federation of Labor will have its effect in the December session. Not since the passage of the Volstead law has there been such an array of organizations protesting against the present prohibition situation.

Economic Argument
The most insidious of all arguments raised and the one that is really causing the drys most concern is that a return of beer would wipe out the federal deficit and absorb the surplus grain of the farmer. The president has received numerous communications from prominent citizens and organizations asking him to abandon his uncompromising dry attitude in favor of emergency action.

Informal discussions among members of the cabinet reveals that there is grave doubt as to the economic value of beer. It is estimated, for example, that only thirty million bushels of grain would be used which out of a crop of a billion bushels is, of course, negligible. Just what the beer tax would bring is a matter of guess, but the inquiry made of the bureau of census and through the department of agriculture is wanted by the drys to answer officially what they believe to be exaggerated ideas of the benefits to be derived.

The chances are Mr. Hoover will not say anything about the subject of 3 per cent beer in his December message but will leave the matter to congress to decide.

May Force Test
If the people through their chosen representatives feel the time has come to nullify the eighteenth amendment directly or indirectly such sentiment will come out in the next session of the national legislature. It is quite likely that a test vote on the beer question will be forced by the wets in congress. Should they get a majority and put a beer bill to the president, his decision would rest no doubt on whether such a measure was constitutional and he would be guided by the attorney general.

The truth is the prohibition issue is really whether the eighteenth amendment should be repealed, revised or retained. Nullification measures are not likely to get the O. K. of the conservative and there is no two-thirds vote in sight to override a veto. In fact it may well be doubted if the wets have a majority though recent trends would indicate they are rapidly gaining ground by centering their efforts on 3 per cent beer as an economic advantage and a tax raising measure in a national emergency.

Gary, Ind., has turned over 210 acres of city ground to individual gardeners, and will give them seed free.

Your Birthday

WHAT TOMORROW MEANS TO YOU "LIBRA"

If September 27th is your birth date, the best hours for you on this date are from 10:30 a. m. to 1 p. m. and from 5 p. m. to 7:50 p. m. The danger periods are from 2 p. m. to 4 p. m. and from 8:25 p. m. to 10:15 p. m.

September 27th is, according to the Signs, a day especially favorable for relaxation and recreation. No disturbing factors need be anticipated, and all should be in a good mood on which there will prevail an atmosphere of harmonious contentment, peculiarly favorable to family and friendly relations.

Children born on this September 27th will be inclined to overtax their strength and over-estimate their mental capabilities. They will always be biting off more than they can chew. Gifted with average intelligence and endowed with ambition, they can and will succeed if they are taught to realize their own limitations.

You, if born on September 27th always show great patience in any work or plan in which you take an interest. You are serious, thoughtful, feel deeply and possess self-control in a marked degree. You are preserving and concentrate on the job in hand until it is completed to your satisfaction. You are a specialist, not a versatile. You are a careful reasoner, and never leap before you know when and where you will eventually land. Your ability to provide for contingencies is almost uncanny.

When you are in sole charge is the time that you excel. When controlled by others, or restricted in your way of doing things, you lose interest. Nothing irks you more than being subject to the whims and fancies of others. There is quite a religious streak in your make-up. You, however, do not parade this, and never try to force your views on others. All suffering makes a strong appeal to your nature, but you prefer to help out the many rather than the individual.

You are very sensitive and easily hurt by the words and actions of others. You, too, are suspicious of others and trust mighty few. Your married life, whilst free from unforgettable thrills, promises contentment and placidity, and your horoscope indicates a well-spent and successful—although rather monotonous—life.

WHAT TOMORROW MEANS TO YOU "LIBRA"

If September 28th is your birth date, the best hours for you on this date are from 9:15 a. m. to 11:10 a. m. from 3 p. m. to 5 p. m. and from 8:45 p. m. to 11 p. m. The danger hours are from noon to 2:05 p. m. and from 5:25 p. m. to 7:10 p. m.

The planetary aspects of September 28th are excellent, commercially, professionally and socially. All the signs point to steady advancement and success. Not only will effort be stimulated, but vision will be clarified. What yesterday seemed an impasse will today be free from obstacles. Much harmonious contentment is promised in the family circle.

A child born on this September 28th will, unfortunately, possess a disposition that will antagonize rather than attract. He will be impatient, impulsive and argumentative. The Stars predict for it a large measure of success, won, however, at the expense of those sentiments that give a joy to living.

You, if born on September 28th, are clever, but too willful to get the utmost out of your ability. Self-opinionated and bull-headed, you are rather ruthless in your methods, and care little or nothing for others' feelings or interests, provided you achieve your

FARMER IS ACCUSED BY FORMER DANCER OF CRUELTY TO PIGS

Chicago—(P)—Mrs. Irene Castle McLaughlin, friend of homeless animals, knows a thing or two about pigs.

Trim, in tailored blue and white, she went to court to prove her knowledge about swine, yesterday when Judge John Prydzinski began hearing an appeal of William Schroeder, a farmer of near Wheeling, Ill., who was fined $10 in a lower court on Mrs. McLaughlin's charge that he was cruel to his pigs.

She testified that the pigs she knew as a girl on a farm near New Rochelle, N. Y., had their heads changed every morning and had plenty of water, whereas Mr. Schroeder's had to break the ice in their trough if they wanted to drink. Further testimony will be heard Monday.

The Lake Forest society woman, who is a scintillating figure on Chicago's north shore bridge paths, seemed decidedly bored, but not at all angry, by the two hours of questioning to which she was subjected.

RETAINING WALL IS BUILT ALONG RIVER

Kaukauna—A retaining wall along the banks of the Fox river in Tourist park has been built by workmen of the north road district. Ground has been filled in between the wall and the bank, and trees which were beginning to fall into the water. The wall, which is about two feet high and 200 feet long, was built at the suggestion of Ethan Brewster, alderman of the second ward.

OWN ENDS. THIS, OF COURSE, WHEN, AS IN YOUR CASE, IT IS TALKED WITH PERSEVERANCE AND TENACITY, MUST ENSURE A CERTAIN DEGREE OF SUCCESS. COULD YOUR ACHIEVEMENTS NOT BE SWEETENED, AND MADE MORE ENDURING IF YOU INJECTED INTO YOUR ACTIONS MORE TOLERANCE AND A LITTLE SYMPATHY?

You are not adaptable to environment, and can only do justice to yourself when surroundings are "just-so." You can, and very often do, make yourself attractive in social circles, and are bright, congenial and magnetic, especially when there is none other to compete with you. Glittering, rather than sincere, is your characterization, and this often blinds those who do not know you well to the glaring defects in your "make-up."

KAUKAUNA FARMS HAVE OUTSTANDING ALFALFA STANDS

Sweet Clover Crops Also Good—Late Rains Are Beneficial

BY W. F. WINSEY

The town of Kaukauna is one of the leading townships of Outagamie county in the raising of alfalfa and sweet clover. Since the late rains the alfalfa fields are especially thrifty. On nearly a third of the farms, a field of alfalfa has been reserved for seed and other fields on nearly all the farms are now supplying pasture to large herds. The third stands in the balance of the fields are about large enough to be cut for hay. Farmers who left the first stand of the season go to seed have threshed and are reporting satisfactory yields. Some farmers were threshing second stands this week and getting good yields of seed. Others were cutting seed or trying to cure seed already cut. A new growth of alfalfa is springing up in seed fields and is almost as tall as the seed stems. This new growth is keeping the standing or cut alfalfa seed too damp and causing a small fraction to sprout, a few farmers said. Raising seed and removing the necessity of buying it at high prices is one of the local incentives for raising alfalfa. Other incentives are the big amount of high quality feed that the crop furnishes; the fertilizing value of alfalfa; prices of alfalfa hay and seed, and the drought-resistant ability of the growing crops. George Deorns, threshed eight acres of alfalfa from the windrow, was getting a large yield of excellent seed. In many other fields in his locality seed alfalfa was in windrows or small cocks, and considerable was still standing. Fair weather is what the growers need to cure and thresh their crops.

Frank Van Zeeland cut a stand of five acres of seed alfalfa. He probably will thresh the crop from the windrow. A number of other farmers were raking alfalfa that had been cut for some time.

To Cut For Seed

A. A. Lemke, town of Kaukauna, has reserved two acres of alfalfa to cut for seed. He harvested 12 loads of alfalfa hay. He has six acres of spring seeding that was weak all summer. The stand is beginning to pick up since the wet weather set in. In order to make no mistake he expects to leave the stand till spring and watch developments. He uses sweet clover for pasture. Last spring he sowed 12 acres of sweet clover to supply his herd with feed next summer. About a month ago, he killed his silo, 12 by 35 feet, with corn, and still has four acres of ripe corn on low ground to husk. He raised six acres of early and late peas. His early crop was good but his late crop was poor. His small grain was only one-half of the regular yield on his farm. Mrs. Lemke raised 24 geese and 200 chickens last summer. She has 60 hens, now moulting, that made good egg records the past year.

Martin Van Zeeland, town of Kaukauna, is preparing his old stands of alfalfa and they are furnishing great amounts of feed and keeping the cattle. His spring seeding of alfalfa is looking good. Grasshoppers cutting the leaves from the tiny stems made him believe that the drought killed his spring seeding of alfalfa as he could see neither leaves nor stems. Since the rains a promising growth is showing up.

Expert Tells Where To Catch Fish During Fall

BY E. A. CLAFLIN

I shall name some more good waters today for fall fishing. Take a look at your map. In the Manitowish chain you will see the following lakes: Big Crooked, Boulder, Grassy, Little Rice, Little Crooked and others.

These excellent waters drain into the Manitowish river from the western end of Boulder lake. As an indication of how good they are let me cite the success had the last weekend by John Joseph, Phil Hoppe and F. Walker. These three anglers fished Boulder Lake. They returned with a musky apiece, one caught each day of their stay. The largest of the three fish weighed 27 pounds and measured 44 inches in length. This fine specimen was landed by Phil Hoppe. The next in size was taken by F. O. Walker. This fish weighed 19 pounds and measured 41 inches in length. Mr. Joseph's musky weighed 17 pounds and was 39 inches long. They caught other muskies that were under 30 inches prescribed by law, and were returned to the water.

October is the month for musky fishing past excellent. There are hundreds of waters in Vilas, Oneida, Iron and Price counties that contain muskies. But of them all none exceeds such lakes as I have spoken of, and others of the Manitowish chain.

Many fishermen use live chubs and live suckers when angling for the tiger of the fresh water. Such messy things are not necessary, however. They will take various kinds of "plugs," but one thing I have learned is this: To be most successful use a lure having a spinner at both ends. The musky likes action and spinners of any kind impart a life like motion to the lure.

As a rule the larger specimens of muskies will be found in the lakes at this time of the year. It is not an infallible rule, however. The flowage of the Manitowish contains many good ones, and I know of no place where more small ones can be taken. If light tackle is used it is safe sport landing the small ones of say, eight to twelve pounds.

In the same neighborhood that I have mentioned, and also drained by the Manitowish river, are Fishtrap,

INA CLAIRE STARS IN NEW PICTURE

"Rebound" Is Story Dealing With Love Affairs of Five People

"Rebound," the picture version of the Donald Ogden Stewart play, goes into the Appleton theatre Wednesday for a 3 day run.

Ina Claire who played the starring role in the West Coast stage production of "Rebound," has the same role in the picture—that of Sara Jaffrey. Robert Ames plays Bill, Myrna Loy is Evie; Hedda Hopper—Liz; Robert Williams—Johnnie, the part he created on the stage. Others in the cast are Hale Hamilton, Walter Walker, Louise Closser Hale and Leigh Allen.

The story is a smart, sophisticated comedy-drama dealing with the rather mixed-up love affairs of five people. Sara loved Bill. Bill loved Evie, and Evie married Lyman Patterson because he had eight million dollars. So Bill married Sara because she sympathized with him, and they went to Europe on their honeymoon.

The honeymoon was quite a success. Both had a sense of humor, and each said "I love you" often. But Sara always said it first. Bill ran into Evie in Paris. The flirtation that was started then was continued when they returned to the United States.

Sara was unhappy, and Johnnie still in love with her, was unhappy because Sara was. Sara tried to appear indifferent to Bill's philanderings, but at last she could control her feelings no longer and pleaded with Bill not to humiliate her. Bill passed the whole thing off as a joke and went on seeing Evie. Only when Johnnie got on his knees to Sara and begged her to go away with him did she realize how foolish she must have looked to Bill when she implored him to leave Evie alone.

Sara woke up to the fact that a woman can't keep her husband by begging for affection. She went to Paris and arranged for a divorce. But by that time Bill too had awakened to the fact that he loved Sara and followed her to Paris. Sara hesitated long enough to make him miserable — and then accompanied him back home.

"WILLIAM TELL" SHOT WILD

During the "William Tell" act of "Two Gun Rix" given before hundreds of spectators at Coney Beach, Portcharon, Wales. Rix accidentally shot his eighteen-year-old daughter. A number of apples had been shot off the girl's head, and her father had aimed at a cigarette in her mouth when she screamed and collapsed. Many women onlookers fainted in the confusion that followed. When the girl recovered consciousness she pluckily wanted to go on with the show. She was not dangerously wounded, the bullet having entered above the eyes without touching the optic nerve or penetrating the brain.

Some Music Hath Charms, But Not in This Case

Sally Eilers' music apparently holds no charm for James Dunn, which amuses the cynical Minna Gombell in this important scene of the Fox picture, "Bad Girl."

THEATRE OFFERS "EAST OF BORNEO"

Story Is Laid in Wild Jungle Country of Malay Peninsula

The story is laid in the wild jungle country of the Malay peninsula and many of its scenes were actually made there by an expedition which traveled half way around the world from the studios in Hollywood.

The story concerns an Oriental rajah, an American woman and her former husband. The latter, embittered by his unsuccessful marital venture, has chosen literally to bury himself in the Malay jungles where he is the only white man, and where he acts as personal physician to the rajah of the district. The wife, feeling the return of her old love for her former husband, follows him to this tropical outpost, and it is after her arrival that the story takes on an unusual quality of tense drama. With the indignant husband repulsing his former wife and the rajah casting covetous eyes on her, a situation is created which leads to exciting events and a most thrilling climax.

The cast, headed by Rose Hobart and Charles Bickford, is excellent. These two players are ideally suited to their roles, as are also Georges

BOYD IS IN DRAMATIC ROLE IN "BIG GAMBLE"

Bill Boyd has been playing soldiers, policemen and westerners for a long spell. All of the time this RKO Pathe star has been yearning to do a red-blooded drama and get out of uniform and boots. His wish is fulfilled in "The Big Gamble" which is coming Saturday to the Appleton theatre.

The knitting-frame used in the manufacture of silk stockings in England is substantially the same today as when it was invented in the reign of Queen Elizabeth.

Reinvent, Lupita Tovar and Noble Johnson. The efforts of these artists are supplemented by several hundred native Malays, who supply the "finishing touches" to a screen production which is in every way remarkable. Universal and Director George Melford may well be proud of "East of Borneo."

This picture plays at Warner's Appleton Sunday, Monday, Tuesday, Sept. 27, 28, 29.

BARBARA STANWYCK IS STAR OF "NIGHT NURSE"

Barbara Stanwyck, vividly remembered for her performance in "Illicit" comes to the Elite Theater 3 days starting Monday as the star of "Night Nurse," Warner Bros. screen adaptation of the sensational novel by Dora Macy.

The stirring sequences of "Night Nurse" follow the life of a girl who comes to a great city hospital as a probationer, and becomes an accredited nurse. She meets temptation in many guises—and also love—and is instrumental in saving the lives of two ill-fated children. "Night Nurse" is unusual and altogether absorbing in its transcription of an actual phase of the life of today.

In support of Miss Stanwyck are Ben Lyon, Jean Blondell, Charles Winninger, Charlotte Morriam, Edward Nugent, Allan Lane, Blanche Frederici, Vera Lewis, Ralph Harolde, Clark Gable, Walter McGrath and Betty May.

Rheumatic heart disease is said to occur more frequently among fair-haired people than among dark people.

COOPER STARRED IN OUTDOOR LOVE DRAMA

"Fighting Caravans" Coming to Elite Theatre Saturday and Sunday

"Fighting Caravans," the thrilling and spectacular drama of the battling pioneers who beat new trails across the continent, is the tremendous attraction which the Elite theatre is showing today and Sunday. Gary Cooper and Lily Damita head an exceptionally large and forceful cast of well-known screen favorites in this epic picture of the forefathers of the American West.

"Fighting Caravans" has been filmed on the same gigantic scale which made "The Covered Wagon" a never-to-be-forgotten screen presentation. The lives, the equipment, the characters, even the dangers and perils of those forward-pushing days have been reconstructed, and brought to life on the screen, in a breath-taking production that will make moving picture history.

Into the intense atmosphere of the frontier-busting caravan is introduced a tender romance, between Gary Cooper, the swaggering, devil-may-care junior scout of the expedition, and Lily Damita, French girl immigrant whose father dies during the gruelling march, leaving her alone, with a giant wagon and a valuable cargo, to carry on to the Land of Gold. Cooper, tempted to take advantage of the girl's helpless position, is quickly brought to his senses by her indomitable will. Their romance blossoms in danger and bursts into full bloom as the struggling caravan struggles into Eldorado.

"Fighting Caravans" is Zane Grey's best-seller novel brought to the screen, made to live against the gorgeous natural backgrounds of the California High Sierras. In the cast are Ernest Torrence and Tully Marshall these two told scouts of "The Covered Wagon."

SHOULD START NOW

Washington — For adequate protection of the country, the U. S. should start immediately the construction of aircraft carrier and light cruiser tonnage allotted the country under the London arms limitation treaty, is the opinion of Charles L. Lawrence, president of the Aeronautical Chamber of Commerce. The plan calls for construction of four 13,800-ton aircraft carriers and a number of flying deck cruisers.

They Decide to Forgive and Forget

"YOUNG SINNERS" IS MODERNISTIC STORY

Luxury and society on one side—reckless youth on the other. Who are the real sinners—the young who know not, or their fathers and mothers?

See "Young Sinners," Fox comedy drama of the rising generation which comes to the Elite Theatre Thursday and Friday for the stirring, zestful answer of what happens when a father neglects his son and, conversely, what results when a parent makes a pal of his boy.

Thomas Meighan makes a triumphant return to the screen in a featured role while Harold Lloyd, brilliant recruit from the Broadway stage, shares the romantic interest with Dorothy Jordan.

Other important roles in this sparkling John Blystone directed picture based on Elmer Harris' successful play are portrayed by Cecilia Loftus and James Kirkwood.

ST. KILDA LURE TOO STRONG

Many natives of St. Kilda who deserted the lonely isle off the coast of Scotland because of the vicissitudes there have returned, and are happy and contented, with apparently no desire to leave. They are busy weaving cloth, at which they are highly skilled, using the old looms which they left to the elements when they emigrated more than a year ago.

Chapter 21
ONE SMALL PROMISE
ES, Nelson. I had the same idea, myself, at first, so I asked Peak to investigate. He says it's on the level."
"That darned invention—can you beat it? Do you remember how we used to laugh about it?"
"I do," Sam smiled. "It rather looks as though the joke were on us, after all."
When Sam got home to the stable, Fourth led her into the living room. He was carrying a check. "I have here," he announced, "a little gift which I have been meaning to give you for some time. I warn you, however, that it is given only under certain very definite conditions."
"Money for me?" Sam smiled. "Fourth, how wonderful. What are the conditions?"
"The conditions are that you are to spend every cent of it on clothes for yourself. Not only that, but you are to spend every cent of it in one day. Every penny must go between the rising of the sun and its next setting. Do you agree?"
"Do I agree?" Sam laughed. "I never agreed to anything more readily."
"Good," Fourth nodded and dropped the check in her lap. Sam picked up the check and glanced at the figures on its face. Then she gasped.
"Fourth!" Sam waved the check in a sort of panic. "Why this is a perfectly enormous amount of money! This is more than I spend on clothes in a year. You must take it back!"
"Nonsense!" Fourth was tremendously pleased with himself. "We have plenty of money now, and I intend that you shall begin to realize it." He waved an admonitory finger. "Remember now. You've promised to spend it all in a single day."
Sam, of course, said the thing was impossible, and that she would never be able to go through with it. "Spending money is a habit," said Fourth with a grin, "but it's one which is very easily acquired. Something tells me that you'll learn rapidly. At any rate you must give it a try."
Sam gave it a try the next day and she found that Fourth had been right. She seemed to have a talent for spending money. It flowed from her hands swiftly and without the slightest pain.
When, at last, she returned to the stable, her money was gone, but there was a bright spot of excitement in her cheeks. She had been living in a dream, and something within her demanded insistently that the dream must go on. She telephoned Peak, therefore, as soon as she had taken off her hat.
"I have an assignment for you tonight," she told him swiftly. "I warn you that it won't be easy. How's your strength?"
"My strength is magnificent, Sam. What's the bad news?"
"Just this," Sam laughed. "I want you to take me in town to dinner. I don't want an ordinary dinner, understand, but the quintessence of dinners. After that we can drop in for the last act of the lightest possible musical comedy. The evening might conclude with dancing at the Ritz. Flowers will be expected, of course, with orchids preferred. How about it?"
"Grand!" Peak whistled. "It reads like what I've been wanting to do for the past six months."
Peak fell into the spirit of the thing and performed his task perfectly. He saw a new Sam. Instead of being silent and preoccupied as she had been for so long, she was gay and carefree. It was obvious that she was sincerely happy. Peak wondered if he would be able to keep his head throughout the entire evening. He told himself grimly that he must. There must be no word or gesture which might possibly give the lie to his carefully built-up attitude of almost impersonal friendliness.
He did very well during dinner and at the theater, but when they were seated at their little table in the Ritz grill afterward, he could not resist an overpowering impulse to speak about her appearance.

"Your dress, Sam," he said slowly. "Your new dress. It's simply swell!"
"Thanks, Peak!" She smiled. "It really isn't a dress though. It's a symbol of a new era."
"Oh," He frowned. "I see what you mean. It's a symbol of your new financial standing."
Sam told him of her shopping expedition. She sighed. "I suppose I'll wake up when the clock strikes midnight."
"I don't think so, Sam," He shook his head. "There's no reason for you to wake up, because the whole thing is true." He looked at her closely. "I wonder if you know how true it is, and precisely what it means. It means, you know, that your reason for marrying me is removed."
The animation went out of Sam's face. "I've thought of that."
"Of course you have," He looked away. "Well, nothing remains but for you to say the word."
Sam played with the engagement ring on her left hand. Then she said quietly: "I've told you that I'd marry you, Peak. Remember that. I've promised."
Peak said calmly, almost indifferently. "I hope you won't let anything so unimportant stand in your way."
"Unimportant? I'm not so sure. A promise is a hard thing to dodge." "Perhaps, but your whole life is a fairly important thing. If I were you I'd do some serious thinking before I decided to let it be influenced by one small promise."
Sam looked at him for a moment and then shook her head. "Are you always like this, Peak?" she inquired gently. "Don't you ever think about yourself at all?"
"Nonsense!" He scowled and the color deepened in his face. "I think about myself constantly. I hardly ever think about anything else, as a matter of fact."
"Really?" Sam was pleasantly skeptical. "Are you thinking about yourself when you advise me to break our engagement? From what you've said about your feeling for me, I should say that you were thinking about anything but your own interests."
"Quit it, Sam!" said Peak almost angrily. "Quit trying to make me out a little tin god. You'll find out soon enough that I'm not."
"I didn't say you were a little tin god. I just said that you weren't exactly selfish."
"Selfish is just what I am! I'm not anxious to know that I've ruined your life. I tell you to think carefully, and I mean it!"
"All right, Peak. Let's not quarrel," She smiled. "I'll promise to think carefully—but not for a while. For a while I'm going to have myself a good time. By the way, do you think you could find some one to take my place on the Express?"
"Why, I think so," He stared. "Do you really want to give it up?"
"Yes."
"That's strange," He was frankly surprised. "I thought you said—"
"I know what I said, but that was some time ago. I'm not the same girl any more. I've changed. You have no idea." She nodded brightly. "And now, if you don't mind, we won't talk about serious matters any longer. From now on, I'm going to have a good time. Do you understand, Peak, I'm going to have an utterly foolish but perfectly splendid good time!"
An utterly foolish and perfectly splendid time was just what they had. When they finally arrived at the front door of the stable Sam was utterly exhausted but still thoroughly happy.
She said: "It's been wonderful. Peak. Think of something gay for us to do tomorrow night, will you please? I have another dress that I want to show the world."
"Another dress?" He tried not to look at her. "Well, I only hope it isn't any more of a menace than the one you have on. This one does plenty to me, and not only me. I could see every other man in the place looking at you. It isn't decent!"
"Really?" She was childishly delighted. "Good! That's just what I want to have happen. I'm sick and tired of being decent. You'd better look out, Peak—I'm warning you!"

Kaukauna And Sheboygan Clash Again Tomorrow At Kaw Park

BEYERS NAMES WALLY YOUNG FOR 2ND GAME

Electric City Team Dropped First Contest Last Sunday by 4-3 Score

BECAUSE it's getting late in the season and the sun isn't so warm anymore, because many of the best baseball fans soon will be taking weekend jaunts to see football games and because they just naturally want to get it over with, Sheboygan club of the State league will invade Kaukauna tomorrow intent on putting an end to this thing called the series for the state championship.

Last Sunday the Chairs won the first game at Sheboygan and feel pretty cocky about it. They led throughout most of the game, then saw Kaukauna tie the count when Norman Clusman stole home and finally stepped out in front with the ball game when Phillips threw the ball to the grandstand.

But that isn't all. Old Buster Braun of some 40 odd years stood the Kaws on their heads with his ins and outs and slow balls. This week Manager Beyers has nominated Wally Young and his fast arm as the best bet to put an end to the season. Manager Beyers has the following to say about his pitching selection:

Young to Hurl
"On the basis of his brilliant pitching in the opener I could send Buster back at the Valley champs, but I don't think I will," Beyers confided. "I figure Wally will bother them just as much. When he's right he'll give anybody plenty of trouble. From what I could see of the Kaukauna batters here they're none too anxious to step up to that plate and most of them have a weakness. Perhaps Wally can't pitch to their weaknesses as well as Buster could, but he's just wild enough to keep them from getting a toe-hold and he's got enough stuff to keep them guessing providing he's right."

"For another thing, I don't think Marty Lamer's outfit is going to exactly relish Wally's speed. That pill travels pretty fast when the big fellow bears down and his side-arm delivery makes it difficult to judge either his fast one or his curve. Then, too, they have a skinned diamond down there and if that ball ever gets roughened up a bit Young will curve it around their necks and out of the park. A roughened cover doesn't aid Buster like it does Wally."

Beyers also will start the same club that performed against the Kaws at Sheboygan. Lindsay will show at second base and bat first position. Quasius, the third baseman follows in the lineup and then comes Krauss, right fielder.

Chesbro a Hitter
Chesbro, first sacker who counted two hits in four trips at the plate last Sunday and batted in two runs, bats in fourth position with Manager Beyers swinging his big club fifth. Then comes Joey Zuehl short stop, Norris center fielder, Badura left field and the pitcher, Young or Lamer.

The Chairs are known as heavy clouters and the several hundred fans who will follow the team to Kaukauna expect to see home runs rain over the short Kaukauna fences and onto the ice house in centerfield. The Sheboygan fences are the proverbial mile from home plate compared to those at Kaukauna.

Marty Lamers, Kaukauna manager, hasn't expressed any opinions relative to changes in his batting order or what he expects to do about hurlers. Michaelson who is the Kaw stand-by all summer was wild last week and couldn't get started. Then he'd allow a couple hits and things would be bad. Three double plays saved him much trouble.

Pocan will be on the mound if Lamers feels he will do better against the Chairs. Poke tolled a couple innings last week and looked good until Phillips heaved the pill. Then Poke got credit for the defeat.

Stacy Wenzel again is expected to handle the big pad back of the log for the Kaws. Collins will talk it up from around first base with Marty Lamer working at second. Norman Clusman is billed for shortstop and the tubby boy will be a sensation if he performs as well as he did against the Chairs at Kaukauna. He was the fielding sensation of the game.

In the outfield Les Smith is billed for duty in left field, Vils in center field and Len Smith of Appleton in right. The Kaukauna management has arranged for extra seats tomorrow afternoon but the hint to the wise is get to the game early if you want a good seat.

DID YOU KNOW THAT—
EACH of the Big Three has a pretty fair halfback with which to start the season... there's Al Booth at Yale... Barry Wood at Harvard... and a guy named Jack James at Princeton who is likely to do better than both of these guys if given half a chance... James can "run with ball" as Jim Thorpe used to say... Yale started out with 87 men, Princeton with 85 and Harvard with 80... Yale looks very tough... Wonder what Benny Friedman could do with that throwing arm of Barry Woods... It's Eddie Casey's first year as coach at Harvard... Al Wittmer's debut as chief at Princeton.

CATCHERS
MICKEY COCHRANE of the Athletics, probably the greatest catcher of all time, gets the call over Jimmy Wilson of the Cardinals. Cochrane is the dynamo of Connie Mack's baseball machine. He is a master at working pitchers and keeps the team on its toes. He is a great hitter and contributes his share to the Athletics' home run total. Jimmy Wilson is one of the best catchers in the National League, but falls short of Cochrane's class. He gets the most out of his pitchers and has had a great deal to do in the making of Paul Derringer, sensational rookie pitcher. The Athletics have Heving and Palmisano in reserve. The Cardinals are well fortified in catching substitutes with Gus Mancuso and the veteran, Mike Gonzales.

MILWAUKEE BREWS BEST DRAWING CARD IN THE ASSOCIATION

Teams Will Close Season Tomorrow Afternoon With Double Headers

CHICAGO—(P)—Milwaukee's Brewers failed to land the pennant but they brought more cheer to the American association box offices than any club in the circuit during the 1931 campaign.

President Thomas Jefferson Hickey today said that while the season's receipts were not as heavy as a year ago that Milwaukee drew the largest crowds in the circuit. The championship St. Paul club was second in drawing power, he revealed.

"All in all we have had a nice season although it did not balance even with 1930," President Hickey said. "For the first half of the season, the five teams were bunched around first place, we had excellent crowds but as St. Paul extended its lead, interest waned naturally and the crowds lessened. We were especially happy to see Milwaukee make a good showing. Columbus also had a far better season."

"Sales of players were very brisk. St. Paul sold four fine prospects to the major league in St. Louis, Rochester, Morris, Murphy and Davis, and Indianapolis sold Koenecke, to the New York Giants for a big price. Another feature of the season was the new park at Indianapolis, which I consider the finest I have ever seen anywhere."

Hickey also said he considers St. Paul as one of the strongest teams over to represent his league in the "little world series," and that he expected the Saints to defeat the Rochester Red Wings, winner of the International League title, and bring the class AA title back to the middlewest. The Wings defeated the Louisville Colonels, American association champions, in last year's series.

Umpires for the series will be named tonight, he said. Kansas City yesterday whipped Minneapolis, 11 to 4, and gained another half game over Indianapolis in what remains of the second place battle, while Toledo gave Louisville its seventh straight beating, 3 to 3. Glenn Larson, a recruit southpaw, pitched well for the Blues, while Ednie Winkard, Toledo's all around star, outpitched Guy Williams and Joe Deberry, to subdue the colonels.

The season will close Sunday with a full set of doubleheaders. Babe Ruth Yankees—Took major league home run lead by hitting his forty-fifth and forty-six of season.

Leo Krauss, Appleton—Held Sox to four hits to win his first major league start.

PACKERS, BEARS BATTLE BEFORE LARGEST CROWD

Two Teams Have Met 20 Times; Green Bay Victor in Nine Games

GREEN BAY—The first fall classic of the National professional football league will bring together Sunday the Green Bay Packers and the Chicago Bears, rated as two of the best teams in the circuit. In their first of three 1931 meetings. The kickoff will be at 2 o'clock in City stadium here, with the Packers serving as hosts in an attempt to keep their victory slate unspotted.

No Bear team ever to invade the Bay was so star-studded as the hefty aggregation which will appear here next Sunday. A pounding set of backs, including Nagurski, Red Grange, Brambaugh, Senn, Lintzenick and Jonsvold will resume their task of breaking the Packer forward wall, while the Chicago line will include such stars as Drury, Johnson, Lyman, Anderson, Pearson, Buckler, Murry, Flanagan and Garland Grange.

The Packers on the other hand, survived the Brooklyn game in great shape. Minor injuries settled upon Johnny Blood, Russ Saunders and Mule Wilson, but this trio of backfield stars will be on hand when the whistle blows Sunday afternoon. The Packers, both veterans and "freshmen," showed stellar form last week, and will be prepared to fight in an attempt to hurdle their most dangerous foe thus far of the 1931 season.

The Bear line is one of the few in the National league which compares in bulk with that of Green Bay. Nine huge players, including the touted Bronko Nagurski, bear down the beams at better than 215 pounds, and the fleet backs also are carrying plenty of heft.

All roads will lead to Green Bay Sunday, as advance ticket sales have indicated that the largest crowd ever to witness a football game will be on hand for the kickoff. The fact that both teams are in top notch form adds greatly to the incentive.

The rivalry between Green Bay and the Bears is one of the most historic in the professional wheel. The two teams have met 20 times, with nine games going to the Packers. Eight games were captured by the Bears, and three have ended in tie decisions.

BARONS BEAT DEAN TO WIN SOUTHERN TITLE

Houston, Tex.—(P)—The Birmingham Barons of the Southern association held the Dixie baseball series championship today by virtue of a 6 to 3 victory over the Houston Buffaloes, Texas league champions, under the lights here last night.

With the series standing 3-1 against them early this week the Barons came out of a battling slump to win three successive games. In doing so they disposed of a trio generally regarded as the class of the Texas league hurling corps—Dick McCabe, George Washington Payne and Dizzy Dean.

The Barons climaxed their rally last night by beating Dean who had been notified but two days before that he was to join the St. Louis Cardinals at the close of the series. The Southern association club found Dean for 10 hits, slaying a large ninth inning of three runs.

Umpires—Block and Bender

Chaff'n Chatter
By Gordon R. McIntyre

THE first question of paramount interest which the coming football season will answer is: What will Notre Dame do without Knute Rockne?
A fair reply may be had on October 3 when the Irish face Indiana but a definite retort will most certainly be had the following Saturday when Notre Dame meets Northwestern at Soldier Field.

Both the Hoosiers and Wildcats are natural rivals of the Irish. Notre Dame's first contest of note in gridiron history was with Northwestern back in the nineties. Neither Indiana nor Northwestern ever beat the Irish.

Now that he has gone these two rivals will be the first to test the armor Rockne left behind him and not even Army or Southern California will have more heart for the task than Pat Page or Dick Hanley. Hanley in particular will most certainly make the effort of his life to achieve that slogan of the national gridiron:

"BEAT NOTRE DAME"

Yankees Back In Race For Second Place As Ruth's Bat Beats Washington, 8 And 3

Double Victory for New York Today Will Clinch Runner Up Post

BY HUGH S. FULLERTON, JR.
Associated Press Sports Writer
THE HD belated rush of the New York Yankees, which has provided most of the thrills for the American league campaign since the Athletics clinched the pennant, has put the final decision as to whether the Yanks or Washington will finish in second place up to today's closing double-header between the teams. As long as Babe Ruth is socking the ball, the Yankees are not conceding a thing to their rivals.

Things began to look a bit doubtful for the Yankees a couple of days ago, when, after getting into second place with ten straight victories they dropped back by losing to Cleveland, then they dropped the series opener to the Senators to fall a game and a half behind. Yesterday Ruth led them back into the thick of the battle with an 8 to 3 triumph.

Battle of Homeruns
It was a battle of home runs most of the way, with one costly error tossed in to complete Washington's downfall. The Babe outdid them all by clouting his forty-fifth and forty-sixth homers of the year to regain the major league lead from Lou Gehrig. First Joe Kuhel socked one to give the Senators a 2-0 lead. Then Herb Pennock, clever Yankees southpaw pitcher, surprised everyone in the stadium including himself, by dropping a homer into the bleachers, and Ruth brought the count up to 2-3 with his first of the game.

The Babe tied the count in the eighth with homer 46 and started a rally that drove Alvin Crowder from the box, and brought in five runs to decide the battle. Crowder returned with two on base, Fred Marberry got the second man out. With safety in sight, Sam Rice muffed Laveris' easy fly and let two runs in, Pennock singled to send home another, and Earle Combs cleaned things up by hitting the fifth homer of the game.

If either the Yankees or Washington can win both games today, that team will clinch second place. An even break will put things up to Sunday's closing contest, with New York against Philadelphia and Washington against Boston.

A's Have New Hurler
Only one other game was played in the major leagues yesterday, and that revealed that Philadelphia's Athletics have another good pitcher who had not been counted on. Lew Krausse, an 18-year-old youngster who was graduated from the Media, Pa., high school in 1930, made his debut as a major league starting pitcher by holding the Boston Red Sox to four hits and winning 7 to 1. A two-base error by Dykes and a passed ball gave the Sox their only run, while the champions pounded around and slugged for eleven hits, bunching them in two three-run innings.

The Chicago-St. Louis American league game was rained out, giving the teams two successive doubleheaders to wind up the season. No other major league clubs had games scheduled.

F R A N K B A T T A G L I A GETS ANOTHER BOUT WITH PORTO RICAN

Canadian to Meet Angel Clivelle Friday Night in Milwaukee

MILWAUKEE—(P)—Manager of Frankie Battaglia, Winnipeg, Can., and Angel Clivelle, Porto Rico, climaxed a comparatively dull middle weight elimination tournament card here last night with the announcement their battles will engage in a non-tourney 10 match bout on a fight card here next Friday night.

Battaglia was eliminated from the National Boxing association's tournament to determine a middleweight champion when Clivelle administered a technical knockout in 33 seconds. Although the Wisconsin boxing commission has refused to reinstate Battaglia in the tournament on a protest, there has been considerable discussion favoring a re-match.

Gary Leach, of Gary, Ind., and G. Nichols, Buffalo, emerged victorious over Johnny Burns, a blond, Calif., and Snowflakes Wright, Trenton, N. J., with 10 round judges' decisions in the fourth series of tournament fights.

The Leach Burns bout was carded as the semi windup but proved to be the best show of the two tournament events. Leach was knocked down twice for counts of nine and ones for a five count and was mostly subdued to master, while Nichols took his win with ease, carrying all of the 10 rounds by a safe margin.

Leach's victory was popular with about 1,200 fans who witnessed the show. His gameness in returning as the aggressor, particularly after the close of the fifth round when he was badly hurt by a low blow, was the outstanding feature of the show. Six rounds were scored for Leach, two for Burns and two were even.

The ability of the Trenton Negro to take punishment was the principal factor permitting him to go the full 10 rounds against Nichols. Wright proved an awkward opponent and was an easy mark for blows which Nichols rained upon his body as they weaved around the ring. Although Wright was nearly out on his feet at the final gong, Nichols lacked the punch necessary to score a knockout.

Promoters of the tourney announced the next show would be held Oct. 12. The pairings have not been made.

VALLEY MOGLS TO MEET SUNDAY NIGHT
Green Bay—George Halsas of the Chicago Bears will be the guest of honor at the Fox River Valley league's banquet, which is to be held at the Beaumont hotel, Green Bay, Sunday night after the football game.

DRAKE, RAGINE BOXER GIVEN SEMI-WINDUP

Frank Weyenberg to Battle Al Waiter, Green Bay, in Heavy Go

LYLE Drake of Waupaca, and Johnny Rasmussen of Racine both employed on the new post office building here will fight the semi windup bout Tuesday night whenONEY Johnston post of the American legion starts the season's program of mitt slinging.

The two to take the place of the Joey Biebls-Zep Traurig fight which has been postponed indefinitely because Biebls has an injured hand. The fact that Biebls could not appear here Tuesday was made known to Matchmaker H. W. Miller, Friday, and he immediately dug up Drake and Rasmussen.

Drake has appeared in Appleton before and when he enters the ring there is plenty of leather tossing. Rasmussen has had numerous fights down around Racine and has met Ernie Kratchovil, Leo Schneider, and Ed Goetz, all boys with plenty of class.

Al Waiter, Green Bay, has been picked as the opponent for Frank Weyenberg, Appleton heavyweight. Waiter and Weyenberg fought at Green Bay last winter with the Green Bay boy getting the decision. They staged a merry brawl, however, and the Matchmaker Miller scored when he landed them for Tuesday night's card. Weyenberg fought his last bout at Fond du Lac late in the spring and looked mighty good. His opponent was a Chicago heavyweight of no mean ability.

Another bout for Tuesday night also has been completed. It will be Billy Schuller of Combined Locks and Howie Robinson of Oshkosh. They will take the place of the bout which was to have featured Rosey Rankin and a Berlin boy. The fight has been put off to enable the seasoned performers show Rankin and the Berlin youngster would have been making their debut.

The card as now arranged will show Herbie Thompson, New London, and Harold Cotter, Kaukauna, in the windup. Drake and Rasmussen in the semi windup while Weyenberg and Waiter probably will be selected for the fourth bout.

The three opening bouts have been arranged. One will feature Art West, Appleton, and Leo Hirschman of Denmark, and the other Billy Schuller and Howie Robinson.

TRADE STEADY ON STOCK MART AS WEEK ENDS

Late Flurry of Selling Gives List Heavy Tone at Finish of Session

BY CLAUDE A. JAGGER
Associated Press Financial Editor
New York—(AP)—A steady of nerves, at the end of the most trying weeks of the year, was apparent in financial markets to-day.

Trading slackened in the stock market and fluctuations were narrower, but a late flurry of selling gave the list a heavy tone at the finish. The market had a fair rally in the early trading, but there were numerous losses of a point or two at the close, with a few wider drops.

The bond market was quieter and some of the foreign issues improved. In foreign exchange, sterling showed the best tone of the week, recovering about 10 cents and at no time encountering severe pressure.

Commodities were marked by heavy profit taking in silver, after yesterday's advance. The tendency in banking circles to discredit rumors of other nations slipping from the gold basis may have prompted much of the realizing.

Several of the pivotal shares were well supported and closed on a little higher. U. S. Steel rose about a point, and American Can 2 in the early dealings. U. S. Steel was off 1, and American Can, a fraction, at the close.

Coca Cola again a week spot, dropping 5 points. Eastman lost as much. Union Pacific, Goodyear and Delaware and Hudson closed 3 to 4 lower.

American Telephone sold off two points, then rallied 1. Other issues closed a point or lower. Included Allied Chemical, American Water Works, American Tobacco, "B" Bethlehem Steel, Borden, General Motors, Drug, and International Harvester.

BONDS SHOW SIGNS OF RETURNING TO NORMAL

New York—(AP)—The bond market showed signs of returning to more normal conditions today.

Trading was much less active than earlier this week and what is more important the fluctuations were not so wide. The price trend was irregular but foreign obligations were generally higher. French 7s and 7 1/2s, German 6 1/2s, and Central American agricultural bank 6 of October 1930 jumped about 1 point each.

The turnover in them, except the French 7s, was moderately active, but the trading in many foreign issues consisted of a few small and even single transactions. Belgian 7s of 1926 and Polish 7s were active and the United Kingdom 6 1/2 of 1937 were one of the most active bonds of the whole list and showed an easy tone.

The trend in domestic issues was not so plain, however. United States Treasury and Liberty loans were generally lower although sales of them were light.

Railroad and public utility issues provided much of such activity as developed among the corporate loans. With a few exceptions changes in them were fractional and without a definite trend.

WALL STREET BRIEFS

New York—(AP)—Shipment of service parts and accessories to wholesalers improved during August compared with the previous month, reports to the motor and equipment association indicated today. Declines were shown, however, in shipments of original equipment to vehicle manufacturers and of shipments of service to wholesalers which were sufficient to bring the index of all shipments below the July figure.

Engineering news records reports that activity declined slightly in heavy construction and engineering work throughout the country the past week, contracts awarded in the period dropped from $42,604,000 in the preceding week to $39,716,000 which compares with $44,246,000 in the corresponding week a year ago.

General Foods Corporation announced today it had given employment to 150 additional women workers as demonstrators in 26 new districts throughout the country.

Construction of a total of approximately 135 miles of oil pipe line for the Standard Oil Company of Indiana will begin at once, Ford Bacon and Davis, Inc., engineers announced today. The new line will constitute additional loops to the present system of the company's pipe lines extending from Healdton, Okla., to Whiting, Ind.

The United Air Lines Transport, subsidiary of the United Aircraft, reports that it carried 6,264 revenue passengers in August compared with 6,209 in July. The August volume of mail amounted to 409,335 pounds against 416,720 in the preceding month.

Bank clearings for this week for the leading cities in the United States totaled $7,246,730,000, or $5,854,000,000 in the previous week and $8,582,802,000 in the comparable week a year ago.

HOG SUPPLIES LOW ON LIVESTOCK MART

Shippers Demand Only Few Loads—Operators Estab- lish Market

Chicago—(AP)—Few hogs were offered on the local market today, packers taking on direct consignment 3,000 of the meager run of 4,000. Shippers wanted a few loads and together with a few minor operators established the market on a steady to 10 cents higher basis.

A much improved tone marked the trade in bovine stock this week and final prices of most classes closed higher, though a few some steady. The market was the high point of the week. Long fed yearlings predominated in the supply all week and together with light steers moved up 75¢ although the former yielded 50¢ after mid-week when supplies piled up.

The largest week's supply of live mutton marketed this year in the face of slow movement of the product, higher to check the demand for higher prices. Native lambs finished 25¢/50¢ higher than a week ago with top at $8.85, while rangers which were offered freely gained 75¢ with many late sales at the $7.25 top. It was a case of relatively small numbers of strictly choice lambs holding up the outside prices. Sheep did not participate in the general strength of the market.

GRAIN NOTES

Chicago—Traders say that for the present fluctuations in foreign exchange and action of the stock market have more influence on the course of grain prices than any other factor. The board of trade posts the rates on foreign exchange at short periods and traders watch the blackboards closely. The supply and demand for the time being has little or no influence as a price making factor.

The wild fluctuations in sterling exchange practically nullify the relative difference between wheat prices in Chicago and Winnipeg, as compared with Liverpool and price changes between the time Liverpool closes and the finish in North American markets cannot be quoted until sterling exchange is stabilized.

J. E. Bennett and Company's City house says the shrinkage in the 1931 wheat crop, due to feeding on the farms, will probably reach proportions. The low prices that have prevailed since harvest and the abundant crop encourage the fattening of livestock in this manner, they say. A further widespread practice of stalling wheat on the ground in the southwest will affect the total, it is believed, although definite figures on the amount lost in this way never will be available.

Broomhall says that owing to short wheat crop in California, that state is buying good quantities from Portland, Ore. He states also that it is rumored Pacific coast supplies farm board wheat now are about cleaned up.

LACK OF EXPORT DEMAND REACTS ON GRAIN MART

Canadians Dispose of 750,000 Bushels of Wheat for Overseas

BY JOHN P. BOUGHAN
Associated Press Market Editor
Chicago—(AP)—Disappointment over almost complete absence of export business in United States wheat today had a bearish effect on grains. Canadians meanwhile disposed of 750,000 bushels of wheat for shipment overseas. Speculative sellers were restrained by opinions expressed that deflation in money would bring about inflation of commodity prices and that this in turn would result in better general business.

Wheat bears emphasized comment that although it was admitted most commodities were selling below cost of production, neither mercantile nor speculative interests showed any confidence to take advantage of the situation. There was also talk that with large Russian shipments headed for Great Britain and with likelihood that Canada would receive preference under a proposed British tariff duty of 10 per cent, indications were that the United States was not going to participate in English demand for wheat. It was added, however, that the most favorable conditions neither Argentine nor Australia could raise a large crop and that by the turn of the year if not sooner the oriental demand for North American wheat would improve.

Interest in the corn market continued to focus on the September delivery. Tending to handicap bulls were increased receipts of corn here, 108 cars, compared with 83 a week ago. It was pointed out, though, that the United States corn visible supply was decreasing. Oats eased with other cereals.

Provisionals were responsive to grain weakness, despite upturns in hog values.
